TOURIST CROP IS WELL OVER $1,000,000

Estimate of Publicity Results Show Large Sums Spent Here

Tourist Travel All Over the Province Increases This Year

Although a definite amount cannot of course be fixed, it is estimated, judging by the number of tourist automobiles and passengers which entered the city during the season, that a sum well over $1,000,000 was left in Victoria by parties coming from all parts of the United States and Canada this year.

According to figures on ferry travel released by Publicity Commissioner George I. Warren, a total of 11,599 cars, carrying 27,620 passengers, entered the ports of Victoria and Sidney up to the end of August. Since that time the ferry travel has continued and the figures are now probably well over the 30,000 mark for tourists coming to Saanich Peninsula and the city.

Computed on the basis of each car remaining in the city three days, with the sum spent each day per person being $10, it can be seen that something over $900,000 was spent here by these people. In addition to these figures there is also the travel to the Island from Vancouver to Nanaimo, of which Victoria receives a large quota. The total tourist crop in Victoria can therefore be set at considerably more than $1,000,000, while probably several hundred thousand dollars were spent at other points on the Island.

INCREASE IN R.C.

The tourist traffic all over the Province this year has shown a large increase over that of 1927. Figures issued by the customs department for the fiscal year ending in March this year show that 254,392 automobiles entered the Province through twenty-one ports of entry in the twelve months. These cars carried 802,107 passengers.

FRENCH HUNT SUBMARINE

Ondine Overdue Two Days at Bizerta, Port of Tunis, North Africa

Paris, Oct. 11.—Search was begun today for the French submarine Ondine, two days overdue at Bizerta, the fortified seaport of Tunis. The submarine was on an endurance run from Cherbourg and was due at Bizerta on Tuesday. The Ministry of Marine, while expressing the belief the absence of news was explainable by a breakdown of the wireless set of the submarine, ordered naval vessels and planes to search.

The normal crew of the Ondine is forty officers and men. It has a displacement of 600 tons on the surface and 765 tons when submerged.

Vancouver, Oct. 11.—In order to study conditions in diked areas of Washington and Oregon, and to obtain data which may be applicable to possible adjustments in the Sumas area of British Columbia, Hon. W. Atkinson, Minister of Agriculture, left Vancouver today.

"In line with our decision to make a thorough survey of the situation, I am going to inspect other diked projects, with the object of looking into costs and other features," said Mr. Atkinson.

Following conferences yesterday with potato growers, the Minister would not make any statement about the situation which has arisen in connection with the Marketing Act.

PLANE CRASH CAUSE OF DEATH

Prospector in Serious Condition as Result of Hudson Bay Accident

Toronto, Oct. 11.—A special dispatch to The Toronto Star from The Pas, Man., says one member of an aerial exploration party lost his life and another was badly injured as a result of a plane crash at a forced landing in the Hudson Bay area.

The dispatch says: "One member of the Northern Aerial Minerals Exploration prospecting party is dead and another prospector is badly injured and in a serious condition, according to word reaching The Pas today."

"The men were in the Hudson Bay area seeking minerals and are believed to have been members of a party being transported by aeroplane to a new field, one that is known as the North Plane. The plane, forced to land it is understood, crashed on a reef."

SIX RESCUED
"Word of the precarious situation of the men on the plane was radioed to a Federal Government tug operating in Hudson Bay. It at once rushed to the scene of the wreck and was able to rescue six of the men on the plane. The name of the pilot-in-charge has not yet been learned."

"As soon as word of the fatality reached here, Captain Oakes was sent by plane to render all aid possible."

FORTY-SEVEN KILLED BY FIRE

Natives Lose Lives in Oil Disaster in Burma; Pipeline Burst

Rangoon, Burma, Oct. 11.—Forty-seven natives, including eighteen women, were burned to death in a fire at Ploungbe, 130 miles from Rangoon, on Monday night in a flaming pool of oil. Twenty were seriously injured.

Meagre reports from the district state a leak developed in a petroleum pipeline Monday and on hearing the news villagers from the surrounding country hurried to the place to collect the oil. While working the natives suddenly found themselves in the midst of a flaming furnace which caught them before they could escape.

An investigation made later indicated the villagers had been using a lamp with an unguarded light and that this set the oil on fire.

QUEBEC'S CASE IS HEARD AT WAERPOWER INQUIRY

Ottawa, Oct. 11.—Quebec joined with Ontario this morning in the battle before the Supreme Court of Canada for provincial control of waterpowers against the Dominion. Quebec, through Eugene Lafleur, K.C., today began presentation of its contentions.

Counsel for Quebec agreed that a public right of navigation under Quebec law existed over rivers in that province. This admission is at variance with the contention of Ontario in regard to rivers in Ontario.

Mr. Lafleur supported the assertion of Ontario that the reference before the court was vague.

Ontario closed its case this morning.

MARKET ACT APPEALS SOON TO BE HEARD

Court Will Rule on Constitutionality of B.C. Statute Governing Produce

Issue Comes Before Appeal Court in Chinese Growers' Cases

Vancouver, Oct. 11.—Because the constitutionality of the British Columbia Produce Marketing Act is involved in both cases, the British Columbia Court of Appeal, on the application of H. B. Robertson, K.C., counsel for the Attorney-General, has ordered that the Wong Kit appeals should follow that of Chung Chuck.

Although two prosecutions had been launched against Wong Kit as a result of shipping his potatoes to Calgary without permits, counsel explained the cases were practically identical. The Court of Appeal, therefore, has allowed Mr. Robertson to include both Wong Kit cases in one appeal book.

Mr. Robertson, on behalf of the Attorney-General, is appealing from a judgment of Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald, who agreed with Magistrate Darling of Brighouse that Wong Kit had not committed any offence.

In the Chung Chuck appeal, the accused Chinese is appellant, his conviction by Magistrate Johnson of New Westminster having been affirmed by Mr. Justice Murphy. L. G. McPhillips, K.C., has been retained as counsel for the Attorney-General in this case.

H. S. Wood, K.C., is counsel for the Chinese potato growers.

NEGRO VOTE IN U.S. CANVASSED

Parties Investigating Possibilities in South in Presidential Election

Washington, Oct. 11 (Canadian Press)—For the first time in many years a negro vote may be a strong factor in the southern states in the United States presidential election. Usually the colored vote has not made much headway because the South is solidly Democratic and the negroes do not vote at primaries when a candidate is chosen. But many states in the usually Democratic South are wavering in their party allegiance and both parties are beginning to investigate the possibilities as to how the colored folk will vote.

LITTLE PARTY ALLEGiance
Here is one class of voter with whom neither the religious issue nor prohibition will count very much. Nor is their party allegiance very strong, because usually their votes have counted for very little. But generally they have been Republicans and that party hopes to hold them.

The Republicans are claiming certain victory in Kentucky, but they are also working very hard as they go and are anxious about disaffection in the mining districts, which are normally Republican, and also are worrying about the colored vote.

HARRY W. COWAN VANCOUVER, DIES

Vancouver, Oct. 11.—Harry W. Cowan, former manager of the Canadian Steamship Lines Limited, Montreal, who came to Vancouver two years ago, died at his residence, on Thirty-seventh Avenue West today after a lengthy illness.

Born in Hamilton in 1885, Mr. Cowan took to railway and steamship work at an early age.

MAKING GERMANY-U.S. VOYAGE—DIRIGIBLE GRAF ZEPPELIN

NEW SETTLERS ARE INVITED BY PREMIER KING

In Address in London He Says Canada Welcomes Workers From Britain

London, Oct. 11 (Canadian Press Cable)—Premier King's speech at the Canada Club banquet here was finished so late last night that the reports in the British papers this morning had to be considerably condensed and there was not opportunity for editorial comment.

Most of the papers, however, found space to report his refutation of the allegation that Canada does not require British immigrants.

Premier King said: "No bigger untruth was ever uttered in regard to a nation and a country than to say Canada does not wish to have migrants from the British Isles."

This "propaganda" also was strongly denounced by Hon. Charles A. Dunning, Minister of Railways of Canada, who spoke after the Premier.

Canada was prepared to advance money for the passage, and in some cases pay all the transportation expenses for Britishers whose labor was especially needed by Canada, the Premier said. British migrants possessing initiative and self-reliance, who desired to improve their lot, would be welcomed with open arms to a Dominion whose prosperity and opportunity should be an encouragement to them.

SINCERITY NOT DOUBTED
The London Times today discussed the migration problem generally rather than Premier King's speech. The newspaper said no one on this side of the Atlantic had ever been so blinded by disappointment at the slow progress made as to cast doubts upon the sincerity in this matter of the Governments of the Dominion.

WIRES ON PRAIRIES BROKEN BY STORMS

Communications Restored To-day After Disturbance Yesterday; Man Lost Life

Winnipeg, Oct. 11.—One person was probably fatally injured and telephone and telegraph communication was disrupted by snow and sleet which, driven by a high wind, descended upon sections of Alberta and Saskatchewan yesterday. To-day communication lines were gradually being restored.

Weather conditions for the most part were reported clear and cool, with a light snowfall at such widely separated points as Calgary and Regina during last night.

Earl Brown, twenty-five, of Springfield, Sask., his vision obscured by the storm, was struck by a train at a level crossing and is said to be dying in a hospital. His truck was demolished.

STREET ACCIDENTS
At most points rain and sleet preceded the snow and the slippery condition of the streets was the cause of numerous accidents.

Fuel dealers received a flood of orders. Predictions, however, were for further mild weather in central Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Many farmers welcomed the moisture as an aid to fall ploughing. Grain crops in the areas affected have been safely garnered, as have potatoes and other late vegetables.

HON. J. H. KING IN VANCOUVER

Minister of National Health to Come to Victoria Saturday

Vancouver, Oct. 11.—That he could not understand the attitude of Hon. R. H. Pooley, Attorney-General of British Columbia, in his attack on Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of National Health and Pensions, upon his arrival here.

Dr. King stated Mr. Euler was only following the practice of the Federal Government in consulting the Provincial Government as to its wishes in such matters.

It is expected Dr. King will leave for Victoria Saturday. He will return to address the Laurier Club of Vancouver next Thursday. He will be in the Province for some time.

ARMISTICE DAY PLANS ARE MADE

Observation of Two-minute Silence to Be Particularly Stressed

Observation of the two-minute silence on Armistice Day in November will be stressed very strongly this year, according to C. K. Morrison, secretary of the Armistice committee.

Five or six buglers will be posted in various parts of the city to sound the "Last Post" at the beginning of the silence period at 11 a.m. and the "Carry On" at the conclusion of the two minutes. Arrangements are also being made with the churches to assemble their congregations a few minutes earlier than usual in order that the silence may be observed en masse in the city edifices.

SUNDAY PARADE

The memorial parade of army and navy veterans will take place on the morning of Sunday, November 11. It will assemble at the Public Library and proceed through the city to the Cenotaph at Parliament Square, where a short memorial service will be held.

Close attention will be paid this year to the sale of poppies manufactured by disabled war veterans.

The veterans work ten months out of the year on the making of these flowers. Mr. Morrison stated, and every effort will be made to have the sale greater than ever. Sale of poppies will commence in about a week's time.

THINKS MAYORS OF CANADA NEED TO GET TOGETHER

Co-operation Between Cities Needed, Says Mayor McBride of Toronto

"I am agreeably surprised with the West. I had no idea of what a wonderful country you have here and what great things you are doing with it. My visit makes me realize that there should be no 'East' or 'West,' but just 'Canada' all through!" In these words Mayor Samuel McBride of Toronto, voiced his impressions of his first British Columbia tour, while visiting Mayor J. C. Pendray at the City Hall today.

"What we need more than anything all over the country is a consciousness of the country in which we live," continued Mayor McBride. "The slogans of the day should be 'Canada First' and 'Buy Canadian Goods.' This trip to the West has opened my eyes, I can tell you."

While in conference with officials at the City Hall Mayor McBride suggested that all Canadian municipalities had much in common, and that much good would result from a Dominion-wide meeting of their chief executives.

SPAIN SIGHTS BIG ZEPPELIN ON LONG TRIP

Airship Carrying Sixty People Passes Over Barcelona on Way From Friedrichshafen, Germany, to United States; Southern Route Chosen in Order to Dodge Storms.

Barcelona, Oct. 11.—The German dirigible Graf Zeppelin, en route from Friedrichshafen to the United States, passed over this city at 6:50 p.m.

The Graf Zeppelin, making the first commercial transatlantic dirigible flight in history, is carrying twenty passengers and a crew of forty.

Paris, Oct. 11.—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin quit the territory of France and headed out over the Mediterranean at 8:30 p.m. on its flight from Friedrichshafen, Germany, to Lakehurst, New Jersey.

Lyons, France, Oct. 11.—The Graf Zeppelin, German dirigible en route to the United States, passed over the Brom aviation field near here at 12:25 p.m. Greenwich mean time today. It was headed south.

Lyons is approximately 250 miles by air from Friedrichshafen, Germany, which the airship left at 8 a.m. Central European time or 7 a.m. Greenwich time.

55 MILES AN HOUR
Friedrichshafen, Oct. 11.—The Graf Zeppelin, the great new German dirigible, flew westward today at an average speed of fifty-five miles an hour with passengers and mail for the United States. Sixty persons were aboard, a crew of forty and twenty passengers. Among them was Lady Grace Drummond Hay of England.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, builder and commander of the airship, hoped to bring it down at Lakehurst, N.J. some 8,100 miles away, Sunday morning.

The airship, taking off from here at 8 a.m., headed toward the Atlantic, where heavy storms were reported to be prevalent and because of this it was likely to follow a route by way of the Azores.

Two hours after its departure it was passing over Northern France.

START OF FLIGHT

Despite feverish excitement which had prevailed around the hangar in the last few days, the dirigible got away with clock-like precision, and with less fuss at the start than it takes to get a transatlantic liner away from her pier.

Shortly before 7 a.m. the doors of the great hangar were opened and preparations were made to clear the ship. All the members of the crew took their positions and the passengers were taken on board.

Spears were attached by running blocks to either side, and the great craft was dragged slowly and steadily out of the hangar.

Within two minutes after it was free of the hangar the hawsers were detached and 200 stalwart workmen who had been hanging to the lower gunwales let go. The Graf Zeppelin immediately ascended to an elevation of 150 feet.

The nose was pointed upward and the airship rose higher as it circled over Friedrichshafen.

Finally it headed westward and in three minutes the craft had disappeared from view on what was hoped to be the third east-to-west flight across the Atlantic in a lighter-than-air craft.

This ship is named for the late Count von Zeppelin, German airship builder and inventor. Graf being the German word for Count.

SOUTHERN COURSE

Before boarding the ship, Dr. Hugo Eckener, builder and commander of the craft, said: "I expect to reach New York Sunday morning. The last weather reports, dated 2 a.m., speak of heavy storms. Under these circumstances, of course, it is impossible to determine the exact route in advance. In general, however, I can say we will stick to the southern course, flying over France and then heading southward to avoid a depression which is moving between Newfoundland and Ireland. The northern route is out of the question."

EXPERTS INTERESTED
Capt. E. A. Lehmann, navigating officer, said it was quite possible the airship would go as far south as the coast of Africa and then head for the Azores. He said the most interesting thing about the trip in view of the weather situation was that the navigation would offer opportunities to experts on

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Windsorhurst, Sask., Oct. 11.—Two cases of infantile paralysis have been reported here, a boy of ten and a girl of three.

With some 10,000 British Columbians who have been working in the Prairie harvest fields, about to return to this Province, and with the annual influx of a large number of men engaged in the seasonal industries of the Province, involving from 15,000 to 20,000 men, the Provincial Department of Labor is fully alive to the importance of finding work, so far as is possible, for these 25,000 to 30,000 men during the coming Winter months," said Hon. W. A. McKenzie, Minister of Labor, today.

"That is the problem that must be faced, an annual problem which, I understand, in previous years has been complicated by the fact that a large number of men belonging to the Eastern Provinces, to Great Britain, the United States and elsewhere, and who have gone to work in the harvesting operations on the Prairies, have been tempted by our mild climate to come on to this Coast and spend the winter here in the hope that employment would be available."

"Provided these newcomers have the necessary funds wherewith to maintain themselves for some months until they can secure employment, we

DEATH BREAKS PACIFIC LINK

W. T. Payne, Who Sent First C.P.R. Pacific Ship Cargo, Dies at New York

New York, Oct. 11.—One of the earliest links in the chain of Canadian Pacific Railway interests in shipping was broken today by the death here of William Thomas Payne, seventy-seven, who retired from the service of the company October 1, 1922, was identified throughout his career with the Oriental steamship branch of the company.

In 1886 Mr. Payne, as chief clerk at Yokohama, Japan, dispatched the 800-ton clipper W. B. Flint from Yokohama to the British Columbia coast with a cargo of tea. That marked the entry of the Canadian Pacific into the shipping business and the load of tea was the first trans-Pacific cargo to be shipped east over the railway, which had reached Port Moody in July, 1885.

STARTED IN 1866
Mr. Payne joined the C.P.R. in 1868 at Yokohama. Ten years later he was appointed general traffic agent for Japan, holding that position for twelve years, when he was promoted to be general superintendent of trans-Pacific steamships at Vancouver. After holding that position for a month he was appointed manager of trans-Pacific steamships at Yokohama, from which position he retired in October, 1922.

Mr. Payne was decorated with the Order of the Rising Sun by the Emperor of Japan.

He is survived by a widow, one son, Robert, and a daughter, Mrs. David Dawson of Colombo, Ceylon.

The funeral will be held here on Saturday.

Teas of finer quality are unchanged in price. An avalanche of the cheaper grades has made possible a slight reduction in that class of tea.

VANCOUVER VOTERS HEAR CANDIDATES

Mayor Taylor and W. H. Malkin, Candidates For Mayor, Outline Policies

Vancouver, Oct. 11.—Mayor L. D. Taylor and W. H. Malkin, candidates for the post of Mayor of Greater Vancouver in the election next Wednesday, addressed campaign meetings last night.

An appeal to forget the men and consider the issues was the keynote of Mr. Malkin's address.

"I am sick of all this personal piffle," he said.

Mayor Taylor said he was not and never had been in favor of an open town.

During his address, made in the

Helped by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

ORAINLAND, Sask.—"I am glad that I heard of that good Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine and I will not be without it again. I was so sick that I could not work at all and could not see on the machine. Franklin School in the new Ward Four. Mr. Malkin outlined the various planks in his platform for the development and improvement of the city. He said his opponent had accused him of stealing many of these from Mayor Taylor's platform.

"I had never seen Mayor Taylor's platform, and I am not a mind reader," he said. "These are my ideas for the betterment of the city. But I have one plank here I do not think you will accuse me of taking from Mayor Taylor. It is the curtailment of Oriental competition. The Oriental shops should not be scattered throughout the city. They should be concentrated in one Oriental quarter."

"That is a plank which will cost me many thousands of dollars. My firm has many Chinese customers and you may be sure they will not buy from me when they know that is my policy. But that is what I believe in and what I shall seek to accomplish."

POLICE WORK
Discussing police administration, the candidate declared he would undertake no other big task until the police department had been thoroughly reorganized.

"The men on the beats are a fine body of men," he said. "I am sorry for them. They can't do their duty if they feel persecution they begin will not result in convictions. It is humiliating to them to have a Chinese come along and take their numbers if they attempt to take notice of some of these illegal resorts."

"I feel particularly sorry for those fifteen men who took their jobs in their hands to give evidence. What reward do they get if Mayor Taylor is elected? Dismissal. Mr. Taylor calls them stool pigeons. I call them the heroes of the police force. And they are to get the air. That is the pass we have come to because the chief magistrate has not the vision to see what law and order mean in a busy seaport town."

MAYOR'S ADDRESS

Speaking in the I.O.O.F. Hall at Main Street and Sixth Avenue, Mayor Taylor read part of a letter he said he had received from a prominent citizen of Vancouver. A question in it was: "Why does Mr. Malkin advocate construction of a bridge over the Fraser River to help the farmers of the Fraser Valley and why does he claim to be the friend of labor when his policy as a business man is exactly the reverse?"

INDUSTRIES FOR CITY

Mr. Taylor said he had always worked to get industries here. Mr. Malkin, he said, was going around the city saying he would encourage industries to come here and quite missed the fact that he (Mayor Taylor) had already done much in that direction. He said a survey was now being made of the natural resources of the Province and of its marketing facilities in order that prospective investors would have some data to work on.

NO OPEN TOWN

Mr. Taylor complained that people seemed to hold him responsible for any vice existing in Vancouver. He asked

CITY TRUSTEES SEEK ASSURANCE OF SCHOOL GRANT

District Technical School By-law to Be Put to Electorate in 1929

Class in Aeronautics at Night School Mooted; Sydney Pickles as Instructor

Contemplating a referendum on the election early in 1929 on the new technical school plan, the City School Board will approach the Provincial Government to ask if the grant offered by the former administration for this work would be available if the city can raise the rest of the money by a by-law, it was learned at a meeting of the City Trustees last night.

The referendum, which was defeated by the electorate in the Spring of this year, cannot be put to the people again in 1928, but will go before the electorate early in the new year if the Provincial grant is still available. It was intimated. Under the original plan citizens would have secured the construction and equipment of a $250,000 institution to act as a district technical school, for a net expenditure of $150 for every $250 in the cost of the completed building.

SUPPORT RESOLUTIONS
The board will also associate itself with some of the resolutions to be brought by the B.C. School Trustees Association before the Government, following the Federation convention. These included recommendations put forward in the Putnam-Weir survey dealing with the cost of education and other points.

Following local representations, which were also reaffirmed at the convention, the board will ask that a study of the text book question be made, both from the angle of the cost of the books to parents, and to their length of service in the schools.

Trustee A. C. Pike, who with Trustee Alex Peden, attended the Federation gathering, gave a report last night covering these and other matters of interest to the board.

AVIATION CLASS

The board is to act on the suggestion that an elementary class in aeronautics be instituted in the night school courses, and will approach Sydney Pickles of the Victoria Aero Club, with a view to securing if he will accept the post of instructor. The formation of the class would depend on the number of students wishing to enter.

The night school has now an enrollment of 500 students, it was reported by George H. Deane, municipal inspector, and classes are being well patronized.

The board tabled action on discussion as to whether or not school children should take part in street parades during the school year, and on entertainment in the form of a concert on festival occasions.

SYNOD DEBATES EVANGELISM

Ministers Urged to Be Faithful to Preaching Gospel

Victoria Delegates Join in Discussion at Vancouver

Special to The Times

Vancouver, Oct. 11.—The synod of British Columbia, which met in the Central Presbyterian Church on Tuesday evening, continued in session yesterday under the chairmanship of the Rev. Samuel Lundie, B.A., of Sooke, who was unanimously elected moderator.

Considerable discussion arose over the report of the committee on evangelism, in which a number of ministers and laymen took part, including the Rev. H. P. S. Luttrell of St. Andrew's Church and Thomas Humphries of Victoria.

The synod was unanimous in the following finding: (1) That ministers are increasingly faithful in the preaching of the Gospel message, ever keeping before the people the church's witness to the Scriptures of the Old and New Testament as the only infallible rule of faith and manners.

(2) That special emphasis be placed in preaching on the great doctrines embodied in the Westminster Confession of Faith, which sets forth the deity of Christ, His vicarious atonement and bodily resurrection, the eternal blessedness of the saved and the eternal misery of the lost.

(3) That a series of gospel meetings be held in each congregation at least once a year, with ministers exchanging pulpits.

(4) A more general attendance at the weekly prayer meeting, and an earnest effort made to revive family worship and Bible study, with a view of bringing about that revival of spiritual life so greatly needed at the present time.

Rev. Thomas Wilson, in presenting the report of Sabbath school, stated that the enrollment in the various Sunday schools of the Province, including teachers and cradle roll, was 7,676, and that their contributions for the year were $8,905.

The report of the Women's Missionary Society was presented by Mrs. G. W. Ledingham and Mrs. W. J. White, and was of such an encouraging nature as to bring forth a very hearty vote of thanks from the synod. This report indicated that there are four Presbyteries with thirty-eight branches, six Y.W. auxiliaries, twenty-four mission bands, nine C.Q.I.T. groups, and that the receipts for the year were $6,139, an increase of $734 over the previous year.

Inspiring addresses were given at the public meeting in the evening by the Revs. Luttrell, Smith and McCutcheon. The expectation is that the business of the synod will conclude this evening.

It was noted that in the city when he was not Mayor. No city in the world could completely eradicate vice as long as human nature remained what it was, he said. He was not, and never had been, in favor of an open town, said Mayor Taylor.

Mr. Taylor claimed credit for introducing the eight-hour day in British Columbia, and said his views, stated in 1909, were now prevalent all over the country.

Big Zeppelin Making First Commercial Transatlantic Flight Is Palace of Skies

When the great new German dirigible Graf Zeppelin, carrying passengers and mail, took the air at Friedrichshafen, Germany, at 8 a.m. to-day, German time, for Lakehurst, New Jersey, there was given to the world, proof of the new and surprising possibilities of comfort, safety and luxury in aerial transport. The airship is named in honor of Count Zeppelin, Graf being German for Count.

Nothing like it has ever flown through the air. The great American dirigibles Los Angeles and Shenandoah are far surpassed. The floating liner of the air is at last a reality. Some idea of its possible speed is given by the estimate of Dr. Hugo Eckener, the designer, that the big ship could fly from Berlin to Tokio in four days.

To begin with, the Count Zeppelin offers far better passenger accommodations than any airship yet built. Twenty passengers can be carried, two to a room, in commodious, Pullman-type staterooms. Their quarters are electrically lighted and heated. Electric ranges in the kitchen provide hot meals; roomy lavatories are fitted for hot and cold water.

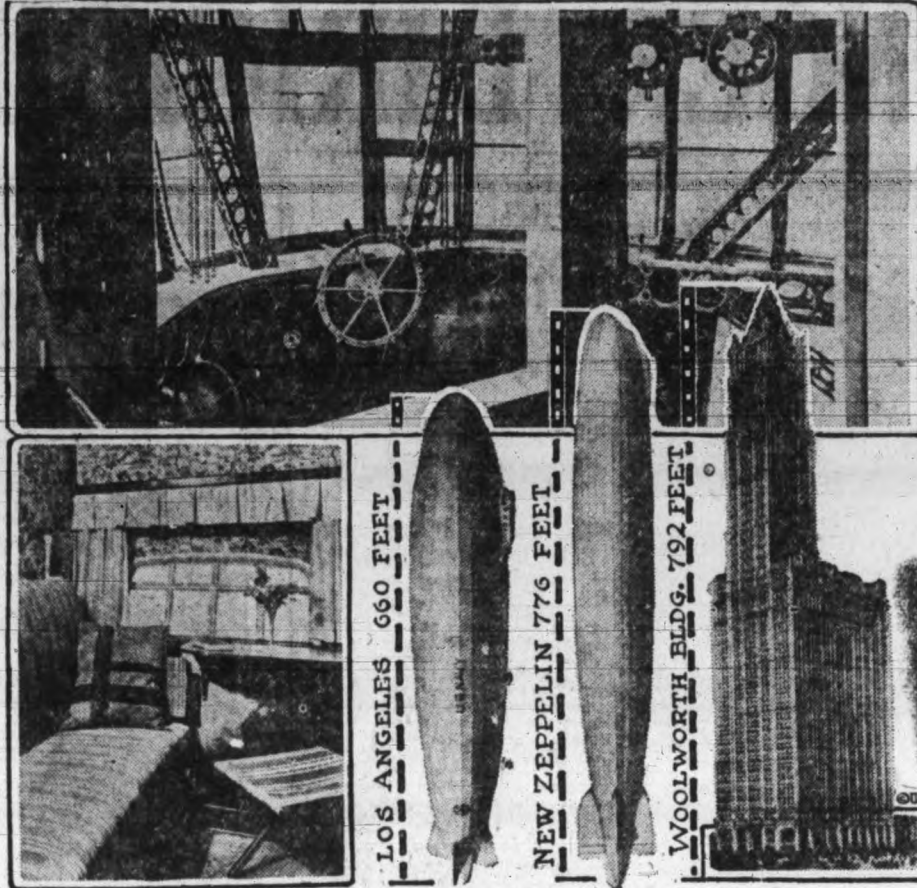

Gone are the days of the narrow "cat walk" which featured the Shenandoah's interior living quarters. The hanging gondolas of that airship are present in the Graf Zeppelin, to be sure, but only to house the five powerful motors. The control room is built-in, as in the dirigible Los Angeles, and on the same deck are the passenger accommodations.

776 FEET LONG

The Graf Zeppelin is 776 feet long by 100 feet in diameter—nearly 100 feet longer and nearly twenty-five feet wider than the Shenandoah, and 116 feet longer than the Los Angeles. Towards the bow, along the bottom, protrudes the forward end of the cabin, running back in a straight line and merging almost imperceptibly with the rest. The great size of the ship dwarfs the five small gondolas so that one hardly sees them at first glance.

Entering the cabin at the forward end, one enters first the control room, where captain, navigator and helmsman have their stations. Big windows give unobstructed vision straight ahead and on both sides.

Back of this comes the navigation and chart room, extending the width of the cabin and fitted with the multitude of dials, gauges, wheels, levers and so on with which dirigibles are guided.

POWERFUL RADIO

From the rear of the navigation room opens a hallway leading to the back. On one side is the radio room, where there is installed a set powerful enough to keep the airship in touch with land stations throughout a transatlantic voyage. On the other side is the kitchen, with electric stove, coffee urn and cupboards. Beside the kitchen is a narrow thwart-ship passageway leading to a door on the starboard side, through which passengers come aboard.

The main passageway then opens into the largest room on the ship—the main lounge, which also does duty as a dining-room. It is a luxurious room, as little like a compartment on an airship as one could wish. A soft carpet covers the floor. Wide windows in the walls provide for sightseeing; they are hung with rich curtains.

There are cushioned arm chairs and circular tables as in the parlor of a fine hotel. At mealtimes this becomes the dining salon, where passengers can dine as comfortably as in a hotel.

During the rest of the day it is a lounge. Big cushioned sofas run along two walls. From the rear of this compartment opens the passageway leading to the staterooms. There are ten of these, five on each side. Each one has an upper and a lower berth of the Pullman type. The walls are papered, and there are curtains on the windows, a built-in table and a stool in each room. Beyond the staterooms are two roomy washrooms, one for men and one for women. At the very back the passage opens into the interior of the vast envelope itself.

USES NEW FUEL

It is not alone in size and luxury that the Graf Zeppelin is a new departure in the world of aviation. The German engineers have devised a new gaseous fuel for its motors; a fuel that weighs no more than air, and that consequently makes no difference in the ship's weight when it is exhausted. The present practice of valving out hydrogen to make up for the loss of weight as fuel is consumed is done away with.

Amazing as the Graf Zeppelin is, however, it will not be long before still another superairship comes to surpass it. The British are now completing a veritable giant, the R-100, which will go even farther along the road of size and luxury.

The R-100 will carry 100 passengers and have three decks or floors, in its living quarters, all built in to the hull. The lower deck will house the crew and working quarters. On the second deck will be a dining-room big enough to accommodate fifty diners at once, flanked by staterooms, with a roomy promenade running around on the outside. A wide staircase will lead up to the third deck, where there will be more staterooms and another promenade deck, on which passengers can lounge at their ease in deck chairs as comfortably as they do now on big steamships. There will be a well-stocked bar aft of the dining-room.

In its outward dimensions the R-100 will not look larger than the Graf Zeppelin. Its length will be even shorter—709 feet—although its diameter will be 133 feet. It is planned to equip it with Diesel engines which will burn heavy oil.

He Never Falls

"When Doris married Jones" she called him the "right of her life." "Did she?" "Yes, and she meant it, too. He's never allowed to go out."

Moving In

"How are things financially with you?" "The wolf has parked himself inside my front door."

This hard gritty carbon that causes wear

There's an oil now that forms none of it!

You likely think of carbon as it forms in hard layers on piston and cylinder heads—removed only by expensive scraping.

But the tiny abrasive-chips of flint carbon that constantly "sandpaper" your bearings, your cylinder walls—every moving engine part—they'll wear your motor out before its time!

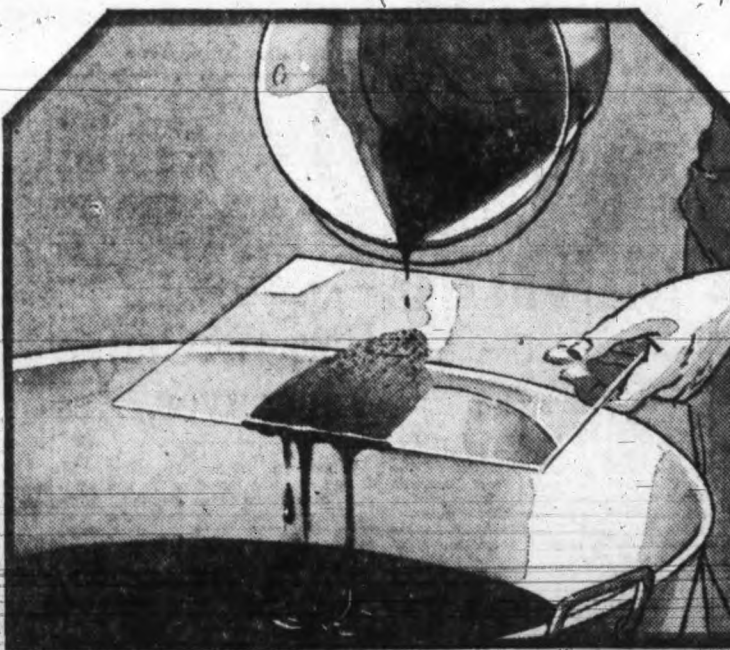

And you may be blaming hard carbon to something other than its real cause. It comes from burned motor oil. It causes knocking, you may know. Flakes chip off and get under valves, holding them open to waste power, to burn and warp.

Strangely enough, even the costliest oils often form the most carbon—three to five times as much. And the carbon they form is hard, flint-like—the sort that causes serious damage.

So you can't judge motor oils on "lubricating value" alone. A vital point is the carbon they form—How much? What kind? There is one oil you should know about in this connection.

Soft carbon—and only a little of it

Shell Motor Oil, made by a new refining process, forms less carbon than any oil you can buy. What little it does form is soft, sooty—blows away through the exhaust.

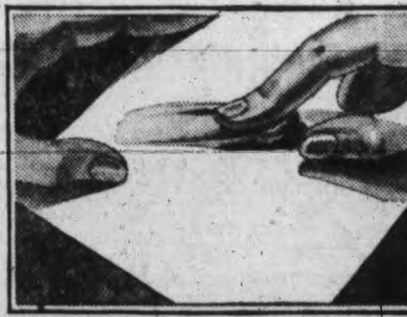

Pour waste oil on a pane of glass—you'll see bits of metal "filings" from your motor's moving parts. And "dirt"—gritty black carbon that causes wear!

Shell Motor Oil forms only 1/3 to 1/5 the carbon of even the costliest oils—and soft, soot-like carbon that easily blows away through the exhaust.

It has a remarkably high heat resistance, holds its sturdy lubricant body under heat that would ruin ordinary oils.

In every way it is a smoother, finer lubricant; you are fully justified in saying that it "adds thousands of miles to the life of your car."

Insist that Shell Motor Oil be put into your car when your refill, when you buy extra oil. You are sure then not only of good lubrication—but freedom from gritty carbon.

SHELL MOTOR OIL

Shell 400, the new "dry" gas that explodes cleanly and keeps out of the crankcase, is the ideal running mate for Shell Motor Oil. Even Shell Motor Oil can be ruined by "thinning" with a "wet" gas

CRASH STOPS OCEAN FLIGHT

Monoplane Columbia Falls at New York When Starting
For Rome

Roosevelt Field, N.Y., Oct. 11.—The transatlantic monoplane Columbia crashed on the Westbury Golf Course to-day, a few minutes after taking the air on a projected flight to Rome.

Both Roger Williams, pilot, and Pietro Bonelli, navigator, escaped without injuries.

One wheel of the plane and at least one wing strut were broken and the craft suffered general strains. It tipped upon one side, but did not turn over.

TOO HEAVILY LOADED
The Columbia took off at 11:55 a.m. with great difficulty because of the excessive weight of its fuel load. It did get into the air, however, but was unable to gain altitude.

It struggled low over the space between Roosevelt Field and Curtiss Field, and then began to settle steadily to earth.

Fearing a possible upset with resulting fire, Bonelli kicked the dump valve to lighten the plane, but it had just been repaired for a leak and would not work.

WHEEL BROKE OFF
Williams made a forced landing on the golf links adjoining Curtiss Field, close beside a sand trap and hemmed in by bunkers. The plane plunged and rolled on the soft turf and the left wheel snapped off.

The Columbia was the machine in which Clarence Chamberlain, pilot, and Charles Levine, first transatlantic plane passenger, last year flew from New York to Germany.

would welcome this addition to our population of hardy men who can shift for themselves, but as labor conditions here during the winter months are normally somewhat difficult I should regret to see an influx of outsiders with limited means insufficient to maintain them while seeking employment.

"If there is any plan on foot to induce these people to come to British Columbia for the winter, I think they should examine it very carefully before taking such a step. I know it is often easy to induce a man to come to this coast in order to avoid the more severe winter, but I repeat that men with limited means—and by that I mean those without the wherewithal to carry them through the winter without employment—should consider their position well before doing so.

"Generally, I would advise them not to come here unless they have pretty definite prospects of securing work."

LEGATIONS PLAY GREAT PARTS

Premier King in Address in London Speaks of Canada's New Ministers

London, Oct. 11 (Canadian Press Cable)—Premier King of Canada, addressing the Canada Club here last night, made the following statement explanatory of the moves which prompted the establishment of Canadian Legations at Washington and Paris.

"It is a desire to gain the advantage in international negotiation of diplomatic standing and status for Canada to-day may be representing Canada's interest in the United States and France and for whom we may succeed to that high responsibility in the years to come.

"Next it is to provide means of more effective consultation and co-operation between the British and Canadian Governments on matters in the United States and in France which are of common interest and concern, but above all else is the hope we devotedly cherish that a Canadian Legation in the United States and in France may serve increasingly as a bridge of the near relationship our country bears to those great countries and to this old land."

GREAT ZEPPELIN CARRIES FIRST PAYING TRAVELERS

First Woman Atlantic Dirigible
Passenger is Aboard German Airship

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Oct. 11.—When the dirigible Graf Zeppelin left here at this morning for Lakehurst, N.J., it carried the first paying transatlantic dirigible passengers in history. It was estimated the airship might result as long as 100 hours to make the voyage to Lakehurst.

Included in the passengers is the first woman to attempt to cross the Atlantic aboard a dirigible.

It is a commercial venture.
DR. ECKENER ABORD
Dr. Hugo Eckener, Zeppelin builder, who commands the Graf Zeppelin, also in charge of the voyage, is a staff officer, was another aboard the ZR13 when it left Germany at 6:35 a.m. on October 12, 1924.

The ZR-3, the second airship to cross the Atlantic. The British dirigible R-34 in July, 1919, made a stormy trip, nearly exhausting its fuel before it reached Roosevelt Field at Mineola, L.I.

The United States navy is represented aboard the Graf Zeppelin. Lieut.-Commander Charles N. McLaughlin, of the Los Angeles is making the trip.

The Graf Zeppelin is carrying sixty persons—twenty passengers and a crew of forty—and is carrying a large quantity of mail, consisting of 56,000 pieces.

SNUB-NOSED CRAFT
The Graf Zeppelin is a great snub-nosed craft, with a large gondola for passengers and officers forward and smaller gondolas containing engines slung under the long, cigar-shaped bag.

The Graf Zeppelin is 770 feet long. The United States dirigible Los Angeles is 566 feet long. The Graf Zeppelin is 116 feet high, compared with the 111 feet of the Los Angeles. The former has a lifting gas volume of 3,708,970 cubic feet against that of the Los Angeles of 2,470,000 cubic feet.

Both are driven by five powerful Maybach-Zeppelin VL-2 motors. The Graf Zeppelin's motors are 580 horsepower and are reversible. They were developed from the 400-horsepower motors built for the ZR-3. Both types develop a little greater power at sea because of increased compression.

The motors are slung under the hull in such a way that one propeller escapes the backwash of another. Each motor drives its own propeller.

board for interesting meteorological studies.

All sort of wild rumors prevailed about stowaways being secreted aboard the airship. The Zeppelin company management countered these with the laughing assurance that any unauthorized passengers found after the start would be dropped overboard with a parachute attached.

Two stewards were aboard to look after the needs of the inner man on the trip.

There was plenty of provisions, including veal, pork, chicken, sausages, eggs, vegetables, fruit, candy, tea, coffee, cocoa, mineral waters, beer, wine and schnapps. When the United States prohibition zone is reached forbidden liquors will not be thrown overboard, but the management will have it placed under seal by customs officers at Lakehurst.

One excited Russian from Paris rushed into the office at the last minute and put down $3,000. He swore he was not a Bolshevik and did not want a berth, being willing to sleep in a gangway. To his intense astonishment the money was not accepted.

A ninety-year-old Berlin woman wanted to travel aboard Graf Zeppelin to see her son in New York.

TO HOLLYWOOD
There also were futile applications from musicians and film-struck daisies who sought the shortest route to Hollywood.

The passengers, who in the last few days were jubilant and animated, were cogily businesslike when the hour drew near for the start.

Half an hour before the takeoff the officers were given a few minutes for last farewells with their wives.

THINKS MAYORS OF CANADA NEED TO GET TOGETHER

All cities and municipalities in Canada must expect to have growing pains, concluded Mayor McBride, but a good stiff backbone in the civic government and a great deal more co-operation between cities, would bring them through their troubles.

Accompanied by Mrs. McBride, and by Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Mills, a director of T. Eaton and Company, Mayor McBride arrived in Victoria on Tuesday, and will leave to-morrow for Seattle.

Later he will be called on by Hon. S. F. Tolmie, in the Premier's office.

MAKES THEM PAY
Toronto owns its own transportation and electric light and power systems, and is making them pay without any calls on the ratepayers. Four commissions, three of them unpaid, administer the annual exhibition, harbor developments, hydro-electric affairs and transportation.

Over $50,000,000 is invested in the municipally-owned transportation system, and a twelve-mile ride through the city costs but seven cents. The income from the system is $11,000,000 yearly, out of which salaries of $5,000,000 are paid.

In harbor development, continued Mayor McBride, Toronto is developing an elaborate plan of dock extension, reclamation of land and industrial expansion. Some $25,000,000 has already been spent on the development.

FAIR GROWS FAST
The Toronto Exhibition is growing in its scope yearly, he said, and this year was the greatest in its history, with over 2,000,000 people in attendance. The receipts pay for the upkeep of the fair, and leave enough over for the construction of a new building each year.

This year the electrical and machinery building was erected at a cost of some $600,000. Next year an automobile wing, to cost $1,000,000 will be built. The exhibition is self-supporting, he pointed out with pride.

Toronto boasts of its public health and its desirability for convention gatherings. This year 165 conventions, many of international scope, made Toronto their homes, he stated, while the tourists, streams, were growing yearly both for the summer and winter seasons.

HON. J. H. KING
IN VANCOUVER

Commenting on the by-election for the seat in Commons for Victoria vacated by Hon. S. F. Tolmie, Dr. King said he did not know whether or not he would be on the coast for the campaign. The date of the by-election has not been set.

"Do you think you are going to see Dr. J. D. Maclean in Ottawa?" Dr. King was asked.

"We would welcome him, but I'm sure I don't know what he is going to do. I hope to see him when I visit Victoria," said Dr. King.

Dr. King stated the dispute between the Granby Consolidated Mining and Smelting Power Company Limited and the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada Limited over power rates was purely a provincial affair.

He explained the only interest the Federal Government had in the matter was the bounty on manufactured copper, which was renewed last year. No decision will be made regarding railway problems, including the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway, until the return of Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways, and Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railway, according to Dr. King.

Hon. W. D. Euler is expected to arrive here to-morrow morning.

TOURIST CROP IS WELL OVER $1,000,000

Through Blaine to Vancouver, a total of 86,166 cars, carrying 310,120 passengers, were checked from January 1 to September 30, this year. In an estimate made by Charles H. Webster, commissioner of the Vancouver Publicity Bureau, it is computed that these people spent something like $9,300,000 during their stay in the Province.

These figures apply to United States motorists only, Mr. Webster said. "It is almost impossible to accurately check those arriving by boat and train and motorists driving in from Eastern Canada."

Mr. Webster was pleased with the results of the campaign for tourist trade, pointing out that official figures showed Canada's tourist crop was second only in importance to her wheat, so far as financial gains are concerned.

While 86,166 cars entered Vancouver this year from the United States, last year's total was only 71,245. Mr. Webster points out. The number of persons traveling by automobile increased in 1928 by the same proportion, Mr. Webster said.

PREMIER KING'S PLAIN STATEMENT

No blazer, antrache, was ever uttered in respect to a nation and a country that say that Canada does not wish to have migrants from the British Isles. Not only do we wish to have them, but we are prepared to advance money for their passage and, indeed, in some cases, pay the entire passage for those whose labor we specially need.

THIS STATEMENT WAS MADE BY
Premier King at the annual banquet of the Canada Club in London last night. This subject had been forecast as the principal topic of his speech and he seems to have stated Canada's attitude towards British migration about as clearly as it could be stated.

It may be too much to expect that this statement will satisfy some critics of the King Government whose object is not so much that of stimulating British migration to Canada as it is of serving certain more or less obscure political ends; but it should impress any doubters—who may have been led away by certain public men and newspapers—with the truth, that Canada wants all the British people she can get.

It will have to be understood, however, that Canada's immigration problem must be solved on the basis of Canada's needs and requirements. New-comers, healthy in mind and body, willing to work and ready to become good Canadian citizens always will be welcomed. Settlers able to answer to this description will not need pampering after their arrival.

PULVERIZED COAL FOR SHIPS

WHEN HIS FIRST SERIOUS ILLNESS
overtaken him, the late Hon. William Sloan was conducting a series of investigations into the possibility of using Vancouver Island pulverized coal for marine purposes. We do not know what progress in the matter was made at that time; but it is of interest to note in "Engineering," a London publication, that considerable development work along this line already has been done.

This journal says that a definite step forward was made when the towboat Illinois was so equipped a short time ago. This was followed by the installation of a similar plant on board the Mercer, a cargo steamer of some 13,130 tons displacement. The results in both cases were satisfactory, and it is gratifying to learn that Great Britain's shipowners, "Engineering" continues, have not been behindhand in this respect, and that pulverized fuel is now being employed on a British ship. That this will lead both to greater economy and higher efficiency, and at the same time render possible the use of coal that cannot be employed in ordinary grates, seems likely from the figures obtained in the first trials.

The ship to which "Engineering" refers is the Stuartstar, a cargo vessel of 10,500 tons, belonging to the Blue Star Line. Her boiler equipment consists of two double-ended and two single-ended Scotch boilers, all fitted with four grates at each end. A short time ago one of the single-ended boilers, the evaporator capacity of which is 16,000 pounds of steam per hour under hand-firing conditions, was converted to pulverized-fuel firing, and the ship completed her first round trip of some 13,000 miles with the new equipment recently. The engineering staff of the Blue Star Line express themselves as highly satisfied with the results; in fact, the conversion of one of the double-ended boilers is now being undertaken as a preliminary to the adoption of pulverized-fuel firing throughout.

It was stated that, as a result of these experiments, it is hoped to equip one of the large passenger vessels of the line, such as the Andahucia, of 23,000 tons displacement, which ply between this country and South America, with pulverized-fuel firing, and, if this is done, "Engineering" continues, the outcome will be awaited with interest by both marine and land engineers. These developments no doubt will be followed by our own Department of Mines and the coal mining industry of this province.

OUR "NATURAL RELIGION"

EDWARD HOWE, THE KANSAS EDITOR, remarks in his autobiography that he believes he has a "natural religion." "If I pass a church," he writes, "and faintly hear the organ and choir, I have heard a sermon that does me good."

Probably a good many of us are in Mr. Howe's class. Living in a world in which the requirements of bread and butter compel us to devote most of our time to the job of making a living, we fall out of touch with spiritual values. Yet we aren't entirely out of tune, for all that; dimly-heard music, caught out of the air, can be to us, as to Mr. Howe, "a sermon that does us good."

These chance eavesdroppings are important. It would be a mistake to assume that a man can worship only when he has donned his best suit of clothes, composed his mind and seated himself in a pew. Life continually throws out accidental little snatches of serene music to us; a hurried moment on a busy street in broad daylight can rift the clouds and give us a vision of the world's glory and majesty.

When you walk down a city sidewalk, impatient of the crowds that jostle you, you are in reality moving through a thousand separate human dramas, each one of which would move you to your heart if you could see it clearly. You encounter, for instance, a shabbily-dressed woman with a chubby little boy, peering at the window of a toyshop. The boy's face shines with the eagerness of expectant youth; the mother's tells of a lifetime of self-denial and penny-pinching. The boy points a grubby finger at some cheap, gay toy and looks up questioningly; the mother hesitates, then smiles—and they go on. You lose them. But the memory of the smile will stay with you: a beacon-light of love and endurance and pity.

People are infinitely nobler and better than we usually think. There is a divinity in human nature that silences forever our sneers and doubts whenever we get a glimpse of it. For the most part it goes unnoticed. We go about our daily routine, through a mass of strange faces, without ever suspecting that the unknown people we meet are other than they seem. Then, unexpectedly, some little thing happens: we hear a stray word, catch a sudden smile—and then we know.

The organ and the choir! You can hear them everywhere, if you will listen. They are contained in the daily, ordinary words and movements of plain human beings, fighting unknown fights and meeting unknown tragedies; yet they come from a farther place. They prove that whatever else life may be—however frustrated, unhappy or tragic—it is never mean or ignoble. There are glory and splendor in and around it.

PROGRESSIVE NANAIMO

SOME TIME AGO THE PEOPLE OF
Nanaimo decided that their city was in need of a new hotel. A number of energetic citizens met and discussed the possibility of carrying out the project. They put on a drive for the necessary funds and obtained them. The hotel was built and named the Molaspina. It already has earned a reputation for itself; it is a standing advertisement of Nanaimo's enterprise. A somewhat similar story may be told about the new hospital building the Lieutenant-Governor formally declared open yesterday afternoon. The institution is a credit to the community. It puts Nanaimo on a level with other cities that have recognized the supreme importance of public health and the necessity of curative establishments equipped with the most modern devices medical science has evolved. The new hospital embodies every up-to-date convenience and the thriving metropolis of the East Coast is deserving of hearty congratulations on this new evidence of its progressive spirit.

AUSTRALIA'S STRIKE BILL

of the annual report published by Australia's Department of Labor is a statement that 441 labor disputes were recorded last year involving, directly or indirectly, more than 2,000,000 workers, with an estimated loss of 1,700,000 working days and an estimated loss in wages of more than $8,250,000 dollars.

Australia is a wonderful country with vast possibilities; but no country in the world can hope to enjoy the prosperity to which it is entitled when its progress is hampered by so many industrial upheavals. Australia's economic policy, of course, is her own business; but it often has been said that high protection is at the root of much of the Commonwealth's industrial trouble.

At this distance it is not possible, nor would it be fair, to attempt to discuss this subject in detail. Some of Australia's public men, however, declare that a number of the country's strikes in recent years have been the result of the workers' demand for their full share of the profits which the few have made and continue to make under the existing fiscal system. Canada, on the other hand, operating under a moderate tariff, for years has been singularly free from serious industrial unrest.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE NOVA SCOTIA ELECTION
The Manitoba Free Press
The Federal Conservative Party took great satisfaction out of the Nova Scotia victory in 1925; it now has the opportunity of taking whatever satisfaction it may find in the result of this week's voting. The fact is that it is difficult to convince the old-line politicians that there isn't something to be gained by mixing federal and provincial politics, although the two spheres are absolutely remote, and provincial problems and provincial administration have no natural affiliation with federal issues. The pre-disposition on the part of provincial political leaders to hitch themselves behind the federal chariot, and the tendency of federal politicians to butt into the provincial field, is not confined to any one party. They are all pretty well tarred with the same stick. In the long run, the mixing of federal and provincial issues brings nothing but an accumulation of grief. Of this accumulation Mr. Bennett and Mr. Rhodes are now bearing their share. They have only themselves to blame. It makes no difference to Manitoba whether a Liberal or a Conservative Government is in control in Nova Scotia, but it is of importance to all Canadians that the people of Nova Scotia have rebuked a leader who promised to divorce provincial from federal politics, and then turned around and made himself a chore-boy for a federal party.

DR. G. L. MILNE IS HONORED BY MEDICAL MEN

Veteran Physician Made Life
Member in Victoria Medical Society; Annual Meeting

Dr. R. L. Miller Elected President of Society; Fine Reports Presented

DR. G. L. MILNE

Dr. G. L. Milne, a veteran member of the Victoria Medical Society, was honored at the annual meeting and dinner of the organization last night by being made a life member in the Society in appreciation of his service to and continued interest in the affairs of the profession for nearly fifty years. He came to Victoria and established a practice in 1880 and had been an active member of the society ever since.

RESPONSIBLE FOR ACT

Dr. Milne was president of the Society in 1895, and during those early years was active in encouraging the advancement of medical science in British Columbia. The original Medical Act, governing and controlling the practice of medicine was passed in 1886. It was introduced by Dr. Milne and his colleagues of that period. This Act, which is still in force, provided that all those seeking to practice in the Province should submit to examination to satisfy the authorities that they were qualified to care for the sick.

SOLE SURVIVOR

Dr. Milne replied to the toast "Our Guest," in a happy vein, telling of the early days in Victoria. He referred feelingly to the fact that he was the sole survivor of the group of medical men who labored here during that time.

The paper of the evening, on the subject, "The Law and the Practitioner," given by Dr. E. C. Hart, proved to be an interesting topic and was full of instruction and helpful hints to the members of the society.

OFFICERS CHOSEN

As a result of the election of officers for the coming year, Dr. R. L. Miller was elected president, Dr. Gordon C. Kenning vice-president, and Dr. J. M. Fowler honorary secretary-treasurer. Dr. George Hall, Dr. M. W. Thomas and Dr. W. T. Barrett were elected to the library committee. Dr. H. E. Ridewood was elected honorary treasurer of the library funds, and Dr. T. McPherson to represent the society on the executive of the B.C. Medical Association.

REPORTS SATISFACTORY

The annual report showed a successful year. A large number of meetings have been held at which many distinguished specialists had spoken. The clinical meetings held at St. Joseph's Hospital and the Jubilee Hospital were well attended and the consultant staffs of these hospitals were thanked for the excellent programmes provided during the last year.

A vote of thanks was passed to the retiring officers, special mention being made of the untiring efforts of the honorary secretary-treasurer, Dr. Stuart Kenning. The meeting was presided over by the retiring president, Dr. M. W. Thomas.

ORDER MAY END COURT HEARING

Vancouver, Oct. 1.—That a stay of proceedings may be entered in the case of Ray Gilmore, alias Slim, who was sent back to Magistrate Shaw by the Court of Appeal for retrial after he had successfully entered an appeal in the higher courts, is the statement of City Prosecutor W. M. McKay. Mr. McKay intimated to the police magistrate the matter was being considered by the Attorney-General's Department, a remand until October 18 being granted by the court in Gilmore's case, which is one of breaking and entering. Gilmore at his first trial alleged he had acted under instructions of Sgt. J. Robertson of the city police, the latter being dismissed from the force after the hearing, but later reinstated by the police commission.

Sooner Or Later
On his honeymoon Mr. Blunder read of his wedding in his home paper. It stated that "the gift of the bride to the bridegroom was a beautiful dress—
—saw down."

"I warn every woman I employ"

Says the woman Personnel Manager in a large office

Realization of this unconscious offense distresses many women. Now such offense is unnecessary. This remarkable sanitary pad deodorizes completely.

IN the world of business, in society, women often find themselves embarrassed at certain times. Sometimes they offend without knowing why. When they learn, miserable self-consciousness follows. Make-shift efforts to counteract the difficulty seldom succeed. Now a discovery made in Kotex Laboratories ends all these fears and worries. Science has discovered a way to counteract a serious offense.

Kotex now completely deodorizes

Kotex has brought a new idea of feminine hygiene to women all over the world. In the past ten years they have learned new comfort, new ease-of-mind through this sanitary protection. Now, after years of work, a process has been perfected that completely ends all odors. The one remaining hygienic problem in connection with sanitary pads is solved.

Shaped to fit, too

Because corners of the pad are rounded and tapered it may be worn without evidence under the most clinging gown. There is none of that conspicuous bulkiness so often associated with old-fashioned methods. And you can adjust the filler, make it thinner, thicker, narrower—to suit your own special needs. It is easily disposed of, no laundering is necessary. A new process makes it softer than ever before.

Buy a box today—60¢ for twelve. On sale at all drug, dry goods and departmental stores.

Deodorizes... and 4 other important features:

- 1—Softer gauze ends chafing; pleated filler absorbs as no other substance can.
- 2—Corners are rounded and tapered; no evidence of sanitary protection under any gown.
- 3—Deodorizes safely, thoroughly, by a new and exclusive patented process.
- 4—Adjust it to your needs; filler may be made thinner, thicker, narrower as required; and
- 5—It is easily disposed of; no unpleasant laundry.

PARISIAN TURBAN

A Paris favorite is this Marcelle Lely turban, which is ideal for a little autumn around hat for Autumn. There's a reason for its popularity; several reasons, in fact. It is small and yet it features the long, right-side line; it has the glossy richness that women admire this Autumn; it employs flat-ironing with ribbon for its trimming and it indicates that the black-white combination is just as chic as ever. Black and white satin ribbon is posed on this turban with such skill that it seems a most casual little knot. The white appears from under the black, on the left side and covers the black in the rear.

KINSMEN HOSTS AT BIG FROLIC

Percy Williams Honored at Successful Entertainment at Crystal Garden

Hundreds of revellers at the Kinsmen Club frolic gave a most enthusiastic welcome last evening to Percy Williams, Canadian Olympic sprint champion, who was a guest of honor at the affair. Premier Tominie, in presenting the athlete with a gold medal on behalf of the Provincial Government, spoke in eulogistic terms of the champion's achievement and Canada's pride in his performance, to which the recipient replied with characteristic modesty. Orchestras conducted by Len Acres, Charlie Hunt and William Tickle supplied the music for the dancing, the ballrooms being thronged throughout the evening.

CABARET DANCERS GOOD

In the banquet hall a cabaret was staged under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Wilson, of the Russian School of Dancing, her pupils contributing some clever numbers. Jay and Louis gave a clever exhibition of Apache and step dancing and selections were contributed by the Crystal Garden orchestra.

The drawing for the Durant car resulted in its being won by M. W. Wilson, 1121 Collinson Street. The proceeds of the frolic will go to the Solarium.

TWIN SISTERS DIE SAME DAY

There were remarkable coincidences in the lives of twin sisters, Ramona and Rosa Bedia, who died at the age of sixty at San Vicente del Roque, in the province of Alicante, Spain.

The sisters had the same tastes and habits. They married on the same day; their husbands died within a few hours of each other; and they themselves died of the same disease at the same hour.

A money settlement was made out of court. A charge of non-support, pending in court of criminal correction, will be dropped.

CHILDREN WHO HAVE CONFIDENCE IN PARENTS ARE EASILY DISCIPLINED

Mrs. D. Q. writes: "How would you dress a two-year-old boy in the winter? Is it necessary to continue to use the wool bands? My plan is this: a part wool double-breasted shirt, machine union suit, and a suit with washable waist and wool pants, and part wool stockings. We live near the mountains, not in a cosy apartment, but I kept my first child too warm and consequently he had lots of colds, and I don't want to overdo it with my second."

"What mistakes we do make! My boy wore a wool band until four years old and wool shirt, drawers, heavy stockings of wool and a serge suit, and then I often thought he was chilly and put on an extra sweater."

"Your articles are splendid. How I wish all these hot-tempered mothers could read your advice on training children. My boys, both wore union suits at eighteen months, and I never whipped them; I just praised and rewarded them for keeping dry."

"I won't buy the boy's winter outfit until I read your answer."

ANSWER
Your praise is very sweet. Perhaps I am not a hot-tempered mother and so cannot understand mothers who use a heavy hand in order to teach their children all the things they must know. Children should be treated like equals, not as slaves who need guidance. If they love you, and respect you and have confidence in your fairness, they can be molded easily. Training children to keep dry is just making that state a more desirable one than a wet one. The earlier this is begun the easier it is to establish the habit. Now for clothes, and this question seems a moot one at the present season. One article of part-wool underwear is quite enough. No band need be worn at this age, and the shirt too should be light weight. A little wool goes a long way. The queer streak in mothers is that they themselves cannot endure heavy clothing in the house (always changing to a light-weight house dress when coming in), and yet they swaddle their children in heavy underthings and heavy outer garments, and then wonder why they are ill and lifeless. A child is so active that he keeps warm even more easily than an adult who leads a sedentary life. If the boy wears a cotton union suit the heavy pants may be comfortable out of doors, but I believe unless your house is very cold and drafty that he would be just as warm in the house with a heavy all-cotton waist and trousers outfit.

If his feet perspire he would do better with the very heavy ribbed hosiery or patterned hose that small boys wear, and these need not have wool in them. He'll wear leggings outdoors and over-shoes and a sweater and coat, so that he'll be as warm as toast. Hope this helps.

Baxter—When you went to France on your vacation, were you personally conducted?
Brewster—Yes, my wife was with me.

WOMEN'S COUNCIL HELPS TO RAISE LIVING STANDARD

Appeals For Foundation Fund to Carry on Its Good Work

The record of the National Council of Women of Canada is one of progressive achievement in all that makes for better living and a better and happier Canada.

In the short thirty-five years of its life it can boast the establishment of the Victorian Order of Nurses, while revised federal divorce laws, the Mothers' Allowance Act and many others stand to its credit in the field of constructive legislation.

SELF-SUPPORTING

Throughout its full and useful career this public-spirited organization has been entirely self-supporting. It has worked for the good of others and for Canada as a whole, at the expense of its own membership.

Its imposing record in federal, provincial and local community fields has been accomplished without cost to the numerous beneficiaries of its far-sighted efforts.

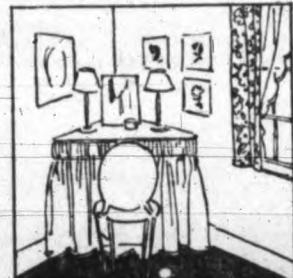

This work has grown to such proportions as to be beyond the power of an organization of this type to finance single-handed. So it is that a foundation fund is sought to put council activities on a sound financial basis to enable the National Council of Women of Canada to carry on and expand their efforts.

WANT NO CURTAILMENT
Canadian, serious-minded and public-spirited, will arise to this need and meet it, realizing how vital to Canada's welfare is the work of the National Council and how imperative it is that this work should not be curtailed.

A FAIRY LAND DRESSING TABLE IS NOT HARD TO MAKE

By Florence La Gank

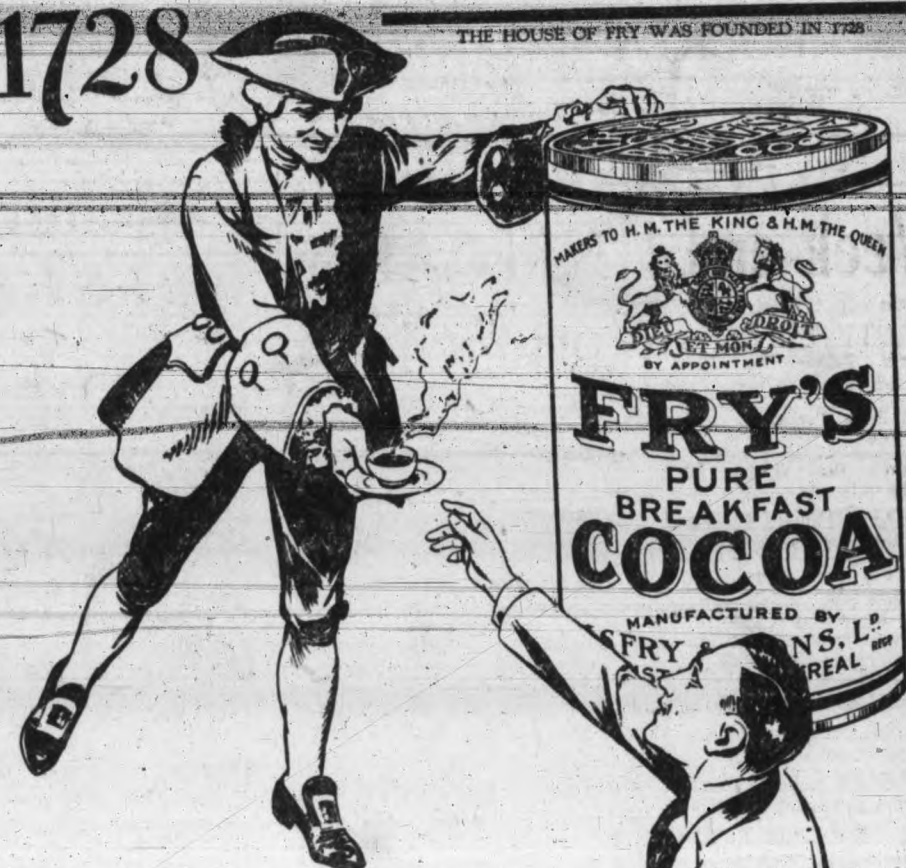

In Roger's sister's guest room she had chosen a scheme of pale green, lavender and silver. Having chosen it she telephoned Lois and asked her to go shopping for the right things. When she finished her room the dressing table corner was like a fairy land or a silver dream. They could not afford a dressing table already made, so her husband put up a built-in shelf, also triangular under it. This was covered with the organdy and taffeta valance.

The shirring was corded into triple rows. There were two bands of these, one at the top and the other about four inches below. On the mirror top table were placed two glass lamps with tea paper silver shades. The mirror was unframed and movable. It was supported by a heavy eisel back. The little dressing chair was painted lavender with silver oil cloth for upholstered seat and cushion. The wall paper was green with polka dots in silver. Every one exclaimed over the room as soon as they saw it. Lois felt she had helped achieve a masterpiece.

Yankees Like Bunch
Of School Kids After Winning World's Title

Buoyant Spirit Considered One of Big Reasons for Success of New York Club; Babe Ruth Treated as Real Hero by Team Mates and Youngsters; Speaks of Final Catch as "A Darb"; Clubs Have to Return $310,000 to Customers Who Had Reserved Seats for the Fifth and Sixth Games

New York, Oct. 11.—The World's champion New York Yankees returned to their home bailiwick last night from St. Louis to receive a roaring reception, as well as a greeting from Governor Smith.

Through a cheering crowd in and around Grand Central Station, where their special train arrived shortly after 9 o'clock, the team, led by Babe Ruth, Colonel Jacob Ruppert and Manager Miller Huggins, was taken directly to the Governor's suite in the Hotel Biltmore.

The home town reception to the Yanks was the noisiest they have ever received in any of their triumphal returns to the city from the baseball wars.

New York, Oct. 11.—No conquering hero in sport ever was accorded a more noisy or sustained acclaim than was Babe Ruth yesterday as the special train bearing the world's champion Yankees sped in triumphant style from the conquest of St. Louis. Baseball's greatest showman and most colossal clouter basked in the spotlight of his latest achievements with all the characteristically boyish enthusiasm that was shown by the crowds of youngsters that scrambled at various stops to cheer him. Until late at night, after departure from St. Louis, people gathered at stations in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio in hopes of getting at least a fleeting glimpse of Ruth and his mates.

Yesterday hundreds of school boys and girls clustered about the special train in the Buffalo yards during a half hour stop, yelling wildly for Ruth as well as his hitting partner, Lou Gehrig. The demonstration was repeated at Syracuse, Schenectady and Albany.

CAREFREE BUNCH
These Yanks, who defy all laws of baseball averages, all precedent and all figuring against them, are returning home like a lot of kids who have been out on a lark or a high school football game. It may be the secret of a good share of their success. They are serious and concentrated enough on the field, but with worry, aches and training rigors behind them, they are a carefree, joshing group.
It is a question in Babe Ruth's mind whether he got his biggest "kick" out of hitting his third home run in the final game, off Alexander, an old ball mess, or out of his great running catch of Frisch's foul for the final out.

SHOW UP FANS
"I wanted to belt another one to show up those birds who were tossing pop bottles and giving me the razz out there in left field," said the Babe. "But, boy, I liked that catch. Wasn't it a darb?"
The attitude of the Yanks, with their sixth pennant in eight years, and their third world's championship victory and a record of eight successive series triumphs behind them, is "watch us next year." They are already talking about taking their fourth pennant in a row, to set an American League record and equal the mark of the Giants in the National.

There are certainly few signs that they are slowing up. Ruth was given up as "through" three years ago when he developed his famous case of indigestion. Two seasons later he set a new record of sixty home runs, crippled and pictured as being on the chutes. If so, the Cards haven't heard about it.

FIVE MORE YEARS
The Babe is thirty-four now. Next season will be his sixteenth year in the majors. He believes he can carry his 225 pounds or more through at least five more campaigns. He was signed for three years at $70,000 per annum on a contract that has one more season to run. The statue, Colonel Ruppert, owner of the Yanks, is convinced it was no mistake.

The satisfaction of owning the first team to win a world's championship without a defeat or a tie appears to offset any annoyance Colonel Ruppert may have at the consequent loss in gate receipts this sort of "victory." The Cards must turn back around $150,000 to customers who bought tickets for a sixth game at the Yankee Stadium. The Cards must turn back around $150,000, representing the reserved seat sale for the fifth scheduled game.

BASEBALL'S HONESTY
If the four straight victories by the Yanks over the Pirates evidenced of baseball's honesty, the duplication of this performance, depriving the clubs and leagues of any appreciable profit, must end any debate whatever on the subject.

It will be a long time, however, before the experts cease debating that quick pitch of Willie Sherdel's on Ruth in the fatal seventh inning of the last game or before they quit seeking an explanation for the Card route.

The simplest explanation is that the big bats of Ruth and Gehrig beat the National League, but it doesn't explain why the Cards themselves were so weak in nearly all departments of play.

"Psychology beat them," in the opinion of John Heydler, the National League's chief executive, who believes they went into the series too confident and failed to recover from the shock of defeat in the opening game.
"The Cards had heard about the Yanks being in such bad shape and about themselves being such favorites, that they were unprepared for what happened, mentally," Mr. Heydler said in St. Louis. "It seemed to me this hurt their confidence and that they failed to recover it, especially after seeing the pitcher they had knocked out so heavily, Alexander, knuckled from the box."

New York, Oct. 11.—Hanging up a new track record for the two-mile steeplechase course, J. E. Widener's imported jumper, McCarthy More, scored an easy victory in the Chevy Chase Steeplechase at Laurel, an annual fixture of the meeting that was the feature of yesterday's card. McCarthy More carried 144 pounds and ran the distance in 3:52 2-5. Phidias was second, three and a half lengths behind, beating out Gracie by a neck. The race was worth $5,425 to the winner.

The Widener Stable made it a double in the secondary feature, the $2,000 Fairfax, a mile event, for two-year-olds, when Marine took first place with Mint Priary second and Coin Collector third.

A ROUGH RACE
In a rough race, E. M. Byers's Tuskegee drew down first money of $2,600 in the Belgrade claiming stakes at Jamaica, taking first place in a furious stretch drive from W. J. Salmon's Stephanus. The result, however, was not allowed to stand, as Stephanus was disqualified for fouling Mordine in the final furlong. McAmpanini, who finished third, was given second place, and Mordine was awarded the show money. Collietti on Mordine and Pascuma on Stephanus rode roughly and interfered with each other several times during the race. As a result, McCarthy More was awarded the race, which it failed to do.

OPENING GAME WON BY SEALS

Defeat Sacramento 12-5 in First of Series For Coast League Ball Title

San Francisco, Oct. 11.—Timely hitting brought the San Francisco Seals 12-5 victory over the Sacramento Senators yesterday in the opening game of their seven-game series for the Pacific Coast League championship. Dutch Reuther left-handed the Senators into submission for seven innings, holding them scoreless, while his teammates piled up a substantial lead. The Seals took a two-run lead in the first inning and were never headed. Sacramento out-hit their rivals, 19 to 15, but snappy fielding cut off many potential runs.

Science Finds Out How Human Glands Work

A gland is a portion of the body that develops a secretion. The breasts are glands and milk is the secretion. The thyroid is a gland and it gives the body a substance, thyroxin, necessary for many body activities. The salivary glands secrete the saliva that moistens the mouth and contains ferments that help to digest starches. The stomach has glands that secrete hydrochloric acid and pepsin and thus help digestion.

The anatomist and physiologist divide the glands into two varieties, those that pour out their secretions on the surface such as the sweat glands, or into the intestines such as the salivary glands and those of the stomach and bowels, and those that pour their secretions into the blood, by which they are carried throughout the body. The latter are called endocrine glands, or glands of internal secretion.

ADRENALIN
The adrenal glands lie just above the kidney and are therefore sometimes called suprarenal glands. They give as one secretion a powerful substance called adrenalin which can make its presence known when one part in one hundred million parts of blood is present.

"Crippled" Babe Gets First Hit

Amid the resounding cheers of thousands, Babe Ruth cracked out the first hit of the 1928 world series between the New York Yanks and the St. Louis Cards when he slammed a two-bagger to right field in the first inning of the opening game at New York. Ruth scored a moment later when Gehrig doubled to the same spot. This picture shows Ruth cracking out the first hit as Catcher Wilson of the Cards reaches for the ball. Ruth also got another double and a single in his four times at bat and scored two of the Yanks' runs—which wasn't so bad for "a crippled down-and-out."

The thyroid gland furnishes, of its main secretion, an amount estimated as a thousandth of a gram per day. There are 480 grams in a pound. That is an amount equivalent to one part in three million parts of blood.

Scientists discover the actions of the secretions of the glands in one of two ways. They can remove the glands and find out what happens when the secretion is missing, or they can inject the secretion and see the effects of an overdose of the substance.

The material secreted by the adrenal glands seems to have the power of aiding the action of the sympathetic nervous system. In fear, rage or anger the adrenal substance is poured into the blood, and the body responds.

EFFECT OF ACTION

The hair seems to stand on end, the eye bulges, the mouth becomes dry, the skin becomes pale, digestion is interfered with and extra sugar is poured into the blood, since sugar is rapidly used up by extra activity. If adrenalin is injected into the body similar effects may develop. The drug is used to raise the blood pressure, and to contract the blood vessels.

The thyroid gland and its secretion are closely connected with the chemistry of the body, with the growth of the skin and with the functioning of the tissues generally.

Overfunction of the gland and over-dosage of thyroid extract produce rapid pulse, increased chemical activity in the body, restlessness and mental excitement. Lessened function is accompanied by sluggishness in all these activities that otherwise take place rapidly.

ELECTION PROBLEM

Vancouver, Oct. 11.—Does the holding of an agreement under the Better Housing Act constitute a contract with the city and disqualify a man for a civic elective position? Owing to doubts on this point, as to whether J. A. Paton, former reeve of Point Grey, could qualify as alderman for Ward 9, William McQueen, returning officer, reserved his decision at the nominations for Greater Vancouver civic honors yesterday, but subsequently allowed Mr. Paton's name to go forward on the ballot with the other candidates.

When Routis Won Featherweight Crown

When this picture was taken, in the seventh round of the Canzoneri-Routis featherweight championship, it looked as though the challenging Frenchman, shown here on the floor, didn't have a chance against the Italian title holder. But this wasn't a decisive knockdown. Routis was on his feet in an instant and battled to the last to win the crown. The fight was in Madison Square Garden, New York.

ALL THAT GOES UP—

Here's a challenge to the Prince of Wales, if the famed Englishman ever resumes his favorite sport of taking thrilling tumbles. At the annual horse show at Byrn Mawr, Pa., James O'Neal was riding "Bunch" full tilt for the barrier when the horse changed his mind. O'Neal, however, never hesitated. He kept right on going, as the top photo shows. But he kept hold of the reins, they checked his flight, and down came rider, hurdle and all.

Star Pitcher of Athletics Won Fourteen Straight Games This Year

First Southpaw to Reach That Figure in A.L. Rube Marquard Holds Record

By BILLY EVANS

When Lefty Grove of the Athletics recently chalked up his great run of 14 straight victories, he not only came within two of tying the American League record of 16, held jointly by Walter Johnson and Joe Wood, but he also gained the distinction of being the first southpaw ever to reach that figure in the junior organization.

Moreover, Grove's achievement has been surpassed by but one left-hander in modern major league play. Rube Marquard, while pitching for the Giants in 1912, copped his first 19 starts, the outstanding performance of big-time competition.

SET RECORDS IN 1912

Oddly enough, the National and American League high marks all were established the same year. Johnson and Wood, like Marquard, coming through with their 16 in a row in 1912.

Outside of Marquard and Grove, the two best southpaw winning streaks in modern major league play. Rube Marquard, while pitching for the Giants in 1912, copped his first 19 starts, the outstanding performance of big-time competition.

Quite a few hurlers have won 12 or more games in a row but except for Marquard and Grove, all have been right-handers. Dazzy Vance, for instance, took 15 straight while twirling for the Dodgers in 1924. Jack Chesbro Highlanders in 1904, Johnson won 14 in 1913; Chief Bender annexed the same number with the Athletics in 1914 and Ed Reulbach had 14 with the Cubs in 1909.

OUTSTANDING STREAKS

In 1924 Johnson won 13 straight, as did Stanley Coveleskie for the same Washington club in 1925. Chesbro with the Pirates in 1905 grabbed 12 in a row. These are the outstanding winning streaks of modern major league competition.

Thus, going back more than a quarter of a century, 12 times have big league hurlers won 12 or more games in succession. Of these, eight were American Leaguers. Johnson with three and Chesbro with two rank as the only ones to enjoy more than one big winning streak.

SPLENDID CONTROL

Getting back to Grove, it can be said without fear of contradiction that much of Lefty's success during the last two seasons has been due to his acquiring control. When Grove came to the American League in 1925 he was one of the wildest pitchers in the circuit. He passed 131 batters in 42 games that year. Last season he walked but 79 in 51 less than two to the truce. This campaign his control also has been good.

And when Grove can put the ball where he wants to, he's a hard fellow to beat. Control has done much to keep such chaps as Alexander at 41 and Quinn at 43 in the majors long after their arms lost much of the old effectiveness. And control, or at least a marked improvement in getting the ball over the plate, has played no little part in Grove's two successful campaigns in 1927 and 1928.

N.Y.K. To Extend Its Service Next Year Present Plans Show

Victoria-Shanghai Service to Be Extended to Hongkong; Three Larger Liners and Three New Motor Ships Will Be Added to Service; Work Proceeding in Japan on Three 16,500 Tons Motor Vessels for California-Orient Schedule; Siberia Maru and Korea Maru to Come Here.

With three new motor liners for the California-Orient service three bigger liners for the Victoria-Orient service and later in the year three new motor liners for the latter service, 1929 promises to be one of the greatest years in the history of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha Line, according to schedules and plans received this morning by A. H. Hebb, local agent for the company.

The schedule from Victoria and Seattle will be extended to include Hongkong, a larger liner will be added to the service in March, two in June, and in December the first of three motor ships now building will be put on this branch of the service. The bigger ships for the Victoria-Orient service will give faster and more luxurious passage to Oriental ports from Victoria.

The first change to be made in the Victoria-Orient schedule will be the extending of the service to include Hongkong as well as Shanghai. The first sailing to Hongkong will be taken from Victoria by the Shidzuoka Maru, from this port on February 9.

MISHIMA MARU COMING
In order to keep up their frequent sailings and also include Hongkong, the N.Y.K. has found it necessary to put another vessel on the run, and have chosen the Mishima Maru, which is now in the California-Anatolia service. The Mishima will take her first sailing out of Victoria on March 23. The Mishima will be a large improvement over the ships now used, being 7,908 registered tons. She is 474 feet in length, fifty-four feet in width and thirty feet in depth. She was built in Kobe in 1908. She has visited Seattle several times, but has never called at Victoria. The Mishima will have accommodation for eighty-nine first-class passengers, twenty-six second, twenty-four third and 310 steerage.

BIG SHIPS HERE
In June, 1929, according to present plans, three new motor liners will be put on the California-Orient service, replacing the Korea Maru and the Siberia Maru which will then be put into commission between Victoria and

THREE BIG SHIPS AT DOCKS TO-DAY; OFFICIALS BUSY

Three big passenger liners at the Rithet piers this evening will keep waterfront officials from longshoremen to customs and immigration officers extremely busy.

The first vessel scheduled to arrive is the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Asia outbound to the Orient. The Asia is booked to come alongside the pier here about 5:30 o'clock and sail an hour later for Yokohama.

The Australian liner Aorangi, which is due at William Head at 4 o'clock, will be along about the same time but will probably have to wait in the stream until the Asia has cleared.

This evening between 10 and 11 o'clock the Pacific Steamship Company's coastwise liner Emma Alexander is due at the piers from California.

The three liners comprise a total tonnage of nearly 40,000 tons.

The Orient, The Siberia and the Korea are sister ships, although a little difference exists in exact dimensions. The Korea is 11,810 tons, 551 feet in length, sixty-three feet in width and forty feet in depth. The Siberia is 11,785 tons, 551 feet in length, sixty-three feet in width and forty feet in depth. Both vessels were built in 1901. They have accommodation for 131 first-class passengers, forty-one second and 428 steerage. In December next year it is expected that three large motor liners now building in Japan will be ready for the Victoria-Orient service. As yet these ships have not been named.

TO BE WITHDRAWN
Present plans call for the withdrawing of the Kaga Maru and the Yokohama Maru from this service when the new ships are put on this year. It is thought that they will be put in the China-India service of the company.

The ships building for the northwest schedule are 16,500-ton motor liners for the California service of the company. It is expected that launching of the three vessels will be put into commission early in the Spring of next year. The three new ships, the Asama Maru, Tatsuta Maru and Chichibu Maru, are being constructed under the latest and most modern plans, and will offer everything for the comfort of a large number of passengers in all classes. They will accommodate 800 passengers all told, 207 in the first cabins, eighty in the second and 500 in the steerage. They will also have large cargo space.

CHAMBER MAKES BID FOR COAST FISHING TRADE

All Fishermen on West Coast of Island Circularized By Commerce Group

Owners of Boats Invited to Winter Here With Their Families

In a strong bid for the increasing of traffic between the West Coast and Victoria and the business which fishermen bring to the port, the Chamber of Commerce has circularized over 500 residents of the coast urging them to spend the winter in Victoria. The circular will reach the heads of several marine plants in the city and vicinity, resulting in offers of free storage for fishing vessels during the winter, and fishing vessels at their premises free of charge. The Chamber is offering to the coast fishermen to come here. Schooling for their children and the benefit of living in the city during the winter and other advantages which they will gain by coming here.

WILL AID CITY
The city will gain through the fish trade which these people will bring and their expenditures while living here, it is pointed out.

The circular sent out, covering all important points on the coast, reads as follows:

"Representatives of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce have invited four marine yards and machine shops in this city, all of whom have consented to allow fishing craft to tie up for the winter at their premises free of charge. It is a certain number also can be cared for.

"This free mooring ground adjacent to these yards and machine shops and in safe waters should prove very attractive to fishermen of the West Coast of Vancouver Island.

"Contracts are now being called for the erection of a cold store plant at the Ogden Point piers in this city which will cost over half a million dollars, and it is expected that this plant will be equipped with an ice plant and all other facilities which are necessary to the successful operation of fishing boats.

VICTORIA THE CENTRE
"It has always been out contention that Victoria with its centres of the fishing trade, and with the added facilities mentioned, we are confident that our belief is well founded. In fact, to-day five fishing boats called at this port for the purpose of securing bait."

Too Much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for fifty years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once the symptoms in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that for your own sake now.
Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for fifty years in correcting excess acids. Many bottles contain false direction—any drug store. (Adv.)

SAANICH GRAPES NOW ON MARKET

C. Thornton Achieves Success After Five Years' Experiment

Hardy Grapes of Piquant Flavor Now Grown on Commercial Scale

Grapes of peculiarly delightful piquancy, black clusters dusted with silver-blue bloom, are now grown on a commercial scale in Saanich.
The first shipments received a warm welcome on the local market this week when offered by Charles Thornton of Verdier Avenue, who has more than half an acre in bearing.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD VINES
The variety found "successful" in Saanich is the Island Belle, and was introduced from Washington State by Mr. Thornton five years ago.

Two hundred plants were then set out and come into first full fruiting next year. A fine growing season this year caused the vineyard to produce an unexpected crop of over one ton, but next year the output is expected to total four or five tons, which will fully satisfy the local demand.
The Saanich-grown grapes are in clusters averaging about half a pound each, the well-sized fruit being larger than the "Concord" variety experimentally grown in Saanich.

LONG EXPERIMENTS
Mr. Thornton has been carrying on extensive experiments with grapes of several varieties for many years, inquirers as to the rows of vines being informed the grape plants were "thornless blackberries."

T. F. Gold of Keating is another Saanich farmer carrying out trials with grapes. Mr. Gold has successfully propagated his own plants from Island Belle stock imported some years ago, and only recently became aware of the larger venture of Mr. Thornton. He is in agreement that the Island Belle grape is the best variety yet discovered for cultivation in Saanich.

The grapes are surprisingly hardy, will withstand heavy fall frost and may be picked from the vines as late as December. The first ripe grapes are gathered at the end of September.

FOG OF RUMORS NOT DISPELLED

Saanich Trustees Would Scotch Tales of Abuse of Office

Trustee Horner Explains Employment of Official; Authority Denied

"Rumors are rife in Saanich to the effect that a municipal employee has been working, in municipal time, for a member of this board," declared Chairman F. V. Hobbs of the Saanich School Board last night, when a written report from Trustee A. E. Horner was under examination.

The report had been requested by the board following analysis of time sheets filed by the schools carpenter. These showed 163 hours to have been spent in 1927 with Trustee Horner.

COSTLY CHAUFFEUR
Trustee Jeune believed that a highly paid man should not spend time driving a member of the board around the schools.

Trustee Horner was absent and has not attended recent sessions of the board. His report was examined with interest, but shed little light on the rumors which impelled the request for a statement.

At the conclusion of his report Mr. Trustee Horner contested the legality of an inquiry, pointing out that the actions of preceding years were not subject to review.

This view was rejected by Chairman Hobbs, and the report will be tabled until Trustee Horner personally attends a session of the board.
In the meantime the trustees will summon the schools carpenter for questioning as to whether, when driving Trustee Horner on schools business, private affairs or business of the trustee was advanced.

STUDENTS AT HIGH ACTIVE

To Produce Play and Give Concert; Art Club Organized

The matriculation and junior students of the Victoria High School will give a concert on December 19 in addition to the matriculation play.

The students' council decided at its meeting yesterday to guarantee the expenses of the play. Misses Moore and Cameron and H. Dee, of the staff, will supervise the production, and it is expected that it will be as great a success as previous ones.

The Modern History Club at its meeting held yesterday decided to cooperate with the students in this venture.

It has not yet been decided just what play will be put on, but Miss Cameron will no doubt choose a suitable one.

The Art Club under Miss F. McLeod was organized yesterday, and will sponsor painting and drawing in the school this year. Mr. Clark, who has just returned from the Old Country where he studied art, will lend his valuable assistance to the club in all its endeavors.

Metchosin

Metchosin, Oct. 11—A large congregation assembled in St. Mary's Church on Sunday morning, when the harvest thanksgiving service was conducted by the vicar, the Rev. H. M. Bolton, assisted by the Rev. W. Gemmell. The church was most tastefully decorated with gorgeous dahlias, asters, Michaelmas daisies, tall stalks of corn, asparagus foliage and vegetables, the windows being festooned with trails of Virginia creeper in its brilliant autumn coloring.

Mr. A. D. Elwood, who has been visiting relatives in the prairie northvinces for several weeks, has returned home.

Dr. and Mrs. T. Gaddes have returned home after a short holiday spent on the mainland.

Metchosin Hall presented a very festive appearance last night on the occasion of the harvest home supper. The stage and the long tables, laden with good things, were decorated most effectively with autumn flowers, brilliantly colored leaves and berries. The building committee, assisted by willing helpers, had worked hard to complete the alterations in time and the extension to the hall provided room for several side tables besides allowing more space between the large tables for serving. Coffee was passed by Mrs. Pergus Reid and the Misses Marion Taylor, Esther Roberts and Edith Allen, ably assisted by "Chummy" Arden. The convener for the supper were Mrs. H. M. Bolton, Mrs. F. A. Osborne and Miss Chegwinn, who were assisted by members of the W.A. of St. Mary's.

The vicar, in a very happy little speech, congratulated the building committee on the great improvement made in the hall and gave a very hearty welcome to several new comers in the district, who were present, expressing the hope that this was only the first of many happy gatherings, when people of all denominations would meet and work in happy fellowship. Supper was followed by a short musical programme. Mrs. F. A. Pearce sang "Down the Vale," being accompanied by Mrs. G. F. Weir, A. D. Elwood, accompanied by Lady Emily Walker, sang "Thanks Be to God," and as a second item "An Irish Love Song," giving in response to insistent demands an encore entitled "April Fool." Mrs. F. A. Pearce sang "Duna" to the accompaniment of Mrs. J. Rainey. The Rev. Robert Connell then gave a wonderfully interesting address. H. G. Pierce moved a hearty vote of thanks to the speakers. Mr. Frazer moved a vote of thanks to the ladies for all their work, thanking them for all they had done.

Dutch Caps
Paris hats now simulate the tight little Dutch cap with starched ends flaring out behind. A dusk-grey haters' plush turban turns its brim back against the crown and catches it at both sides with brilliant. Then the brim is slanted down the middle, back and at the sides and the two wings protrude in flaring fashion at the nape of the neck.

The Oak Bay School Board will take no steps at this time to join with Saanich and Esquimalt to establish a municipal inspector of schools. Notification of this decision was last night received by the Saanich School Board. Several joint meetings have been held recently by the respective trustees, with representatives of Saanich strongly favoring the proposal.

RICH GOLD REPORTS NEAR YALE START CLAIM STAMPEDE

Assay Show Talc Ore Runs as High as $35,000 a Ton; Claims Staked

Jessica, a little and hitherto unnoticed district in the hills back of Yale, on the C.P.R. main line east from Vancouver, is the scene of the latest mining rush in British Columbia, according to the Government filing registrations coming through.

Assay returns from the talc ore brought in by prospectors a few months ago have attracted attention from the Eastern part of the United States and Canada, with the result that outsiders have been rushing in and everything that could be staked under the name of a mineral claim has now been staked. The Government assays on the soft, dark talc ore, or serpentine, that attracted attention, were returned at $31,000 to $35,000 gold to the ton.

EXTENT UNKNOWN

Little is known yet as to whether these deposits have any extent or are mere small, rich pockets. In one place quite a body of this talc has been found, but it is not known how far the high values are continued. A number of Vancouver and Victoria capitalists have already visited the area and invested in holdings there.

PERCY WILLIAMS MEETS KINSMEN

Olympic Star is Guest of Honor at Banquet in Empress Hotel
Canada Daily Stepping Ahead Like Williams, Says R. A. Wootch

After a continuous round of functions and receptions in various parts of the city, Percy Williams, of Vancouver, the world's champion sprinter, completed his tour of the city last night by appearing at the Kinsmen Club. He left for his home on the midnight boat.

Members of the Kinsmen Club welcomed the Olympic star at a dinner meeting in the Empress Hotel earlier in the evening. Percy is a prospective member of the Vancouver Kinsmen Club.

Walter Miles, president of the club, assured Percy that the Kinsmen felt his trip to Victoria had been at some sacrifice on his part. He further assured him of a hearty welcome when he once again visits the city.

NATIONAL SPIRIT

R. A. Wootch, in referring to the guest of honor, spoke of the great national spirit which is arising in Canada. He pointed out how in the last fifteen years sentiment in the country had changed and that we now have a nation which we are proud to sing about.

"Our commerce has increased rapidly," said the speaker. "Our morals and law enforcement are equal to those of any country in the world and Canada has many other achievements to her credit." Some of the men are high in statecraft circles.

"To-night we have with us a young man who has made his mark not only in Canada itself but at the Olympic Olympics, where all the world competes. And the fair sex of Canada also showed up remarkably well at the games."

STEPS AHEAD

Thus in sport as in many other things, Canada had stepped ahead during the last few years and was daily hitting the same stride which had carried Percy to victory in the Olympics.

Williams met many of the Kinsmen members following the dinner and was introduced as a prospective member for the Vancouver club.

James Matheson rendered two solos during the evening with Len Acres as accompanist.

Old-Fashioned washday methods have gone

... modern women have whiter clothes—yet save hours of hard work

OLD days—old ways. What woman who uses Rinso would go back to them?

To-day women have in Rinso the greatest wash day help that science can give them. It soaks clothes clean. Little or no rubbing to do and no boiling. Gone is the long, steamy, back-breaking wash day of years ago. Rinso has banished such drudgery. Clothes now soak in rich Rinso suds—then a light rub here and there. Rinse, and white clothes are whiter—coloured things brighter than ever before.

In the hard water of the prairies, the soft water of the cisterns and the medium water of the cities, Rinso is helping women everywhere to get a snowy wash on the line easier and earlier. Your nearest grocer will tell you how many women in your district use nothing but Rinso for washing clothes. Get a package and try it yourself.

Sooke

Sooke, Oct. 11.—Miss Gray has returned from a visit to Victoria.

A harvest festival service was held Sunday at Holy Trinity Church. The sermon was preached by Dean Qualton of Christ Church Cathedral. The building was a blaze of autumn flowers and fruit, making a charming and effective decoration, for which the women of the church were responsible.

Prairie Harvest Delayed By Storms

Regina, Oct. 11.—While harvesting operations have been about completed in the southern part of this province, the little work remaining has been indefinitely delayed following a rain which commenced about noon yesterday and later turned to sleet.

Moose Jaw had a snowstorm, the first of the season, which put some part of the city's lighting system out of commission for a time.

IN ALBERTA

Calgary, Oct. 11.—Sleet, which turned to snow caused street accidents in this city and telegraph and telephone delays in the surrounding country and stopped all harvesting in the district yesterday.

If you put a few apricots in with practically any fruit—yes—are preserving now, they give a piquant flavor. Halved fresh apricots make delectable salad when filled with cream cheese.

"How Hollywood Is Breaking Its Silence"—No. 2— Film Industry Is Gambling Millions On New Talking Movies

Huge Sums Being Spent Though Future In Doubt

This sketch shows how talking movies are reproduced in your theatre. Wires from the projecting machine in the operator's booth pass through an amplifier and proceed to loud speakers erected behind the screen and in the orchestra pit. The latter speakers are switched on when orchestra music is reproduced. Millions are being spent to thus equip movie theatres throughout the United States.

By DAN THOMAS

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 11.—These new-fangled movies that talk to you from the screen—or rather from behind the screen—have made Hollywood intermittently one of the noisiest and quietest places in the world.

With the pounding of carpenters' hammers, the beating of steel riveters and the down or more other noises which come from the new sound-proof stages now under construction in nearly all studios all mingling at once, one could easily imagine himself in a boiler factory.

Suddenly a siren sounds—somebody is shooting a talking sequence for a picture. And the studio becomes as silent as a deserted barn barn. Until the sound-proof stages are completed the talkies must be made on ordinary stages and outside noises interfere seriously with the recording.

Millions of dollars are now being spent by the film studios to rush the construction of sound-proof stages—which may be used for a long or short time, depending entirely upon the manner in which the public responds to sound films.

It costs about $250,000 to build a stage and another $100,000 to equip it for the production of sound pictures. And several of these stages are either planned or are already under construction in every major studio here.

A sound-proof stage really has seven thicknesses in its walls. First there is the concrete wall, then an air space, a studding, an insulating board, two layers of plaster board and another insulating board. And the inside is covered with heavy cloth draperies.

Then there is the equipment. The stages must be fitted with incandescent lights as the sputtering of the klieg would be picked up by the sound recording apparatus. The cameras must be mounted in specially constructed sound-proof cages so that their clicking will not be recorded.

One side of these cages is built of plate glass through which the filming is done. And in the electrical apparatus for synchronizing the sound and dialogue with the shooting of the picture. And a control room where the volume of the sound is regulated.

And in countless theatres throughout the land reproducing sets are being installed at tremendous cost in this gamble of millions.

It seems like a lot of money is being spent and a lot of work done for an experiment. And after all that's all talking films are—just an experiment. True, they have proven a box office success so far, but that is largely because they are a novelty and a curiosity.

Whether or not the public will continue to like them is problematical. If they don't, the expense of building and equipping new stages will be for naught. And the majority of people in the film village don't think speaking pictures are here to stay. Nevertheless, they must be made now even though their cost is high.

The next article will tell what leading film executives think about the talkies and their prospects for the future.

FIRE DANGERS POINTED OUT

Prevention Committee Draws Attention to Menaces

"The Red Dragon" Fire is licking around trying to find an entry into your home, aspiring to destroy in a few minutes everything that it has taken you years to collect together," says a warning from the committee for Fire Prevention Week.

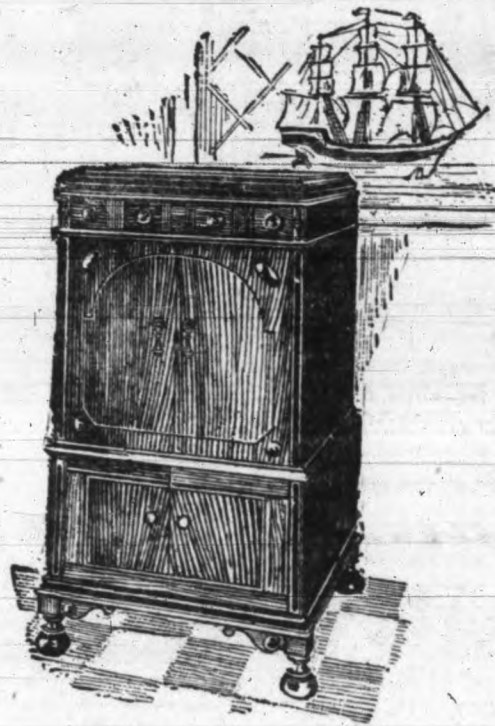

"The Red Dragon never comes openly, he always attacks by stealth in the places out of sight and likely to miss your vigilance. The cracks in the armor of your home that he is likely to attack are as follows:

"The Fire Chief has stated that certainly the majority of fires start in the gutters. When did you last have your gutters cleaned out?

"Shingles are another fire menace and also liable to let the rain in. These should be replaced at once.

"Chimneys should be cleaned at least every six months.

STOCK MARKET FINANCIAL NEWS GRAIN MARKETS

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Much of the Canadian Northwest suffered from a heavy snowstorm Tuesday night and country movement is likely to fall off, the Journal of Commerce says to-day.

Broomhall says that early estimates place the Australian wheat production this year at 132,000,000 bushels, of which more than 30,000,000 bushels will be needed for home requirements. He adds that this has been thoroughly cleaned and the early run directly after harvest will be needed at home.

Ottawa, Oct. 11.—The quality of cereal crop at harvest time as compared with a standard of 100 representing the average quality for the ten years 1918 to 1927, is reported for all Canada as follows: Fall wheat, 95 vs. 96 last year; Spring wheat, 93 vs. 97; all wheat, 94 vs. 94; barley, 96 vs. 98; rye, 95 vs. 101; peas, 89 vs. 97; mixed grain, 96 vs. 98; flax, 95 vs. 94; corn for husking 92 vs. 93.

For the prairie provinces the quality of the principal cereals at harvest time is reported as follows: Manitoba—Wheat, 100 vs. 97; flax, 100 vs. 97; barley, 97 vs. 95; rye, 95 vs. 93; flax, 96 vs. 96; Saskatchewan—Wheat, 94 vs. 93; oats, 93 vs. 89; barley, 95 vs. 98; rye, 95 vs. 102; flax, 94 vs. 93; Alberta—Wheat, 95 vs. 105; oats, 93 vs. 104; barley, 95 vs. 103; rye, 96 vs. 106; flax, 99 vs. 109.

By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.
Winnipeg, Oct. 11.—Wheat—Opened about half cent lower this morning based on the cables which came lower than due, but there was some apprehension as to the weather, snow or rains being general over the three western provinces, with considerable threatened wheat turning out to be light offerings caused prices to react sharply, climbing about 1 1/2 over the previous close. Trade was active and was mostly local in character.

Chicago was quite drab at the start, but later strengthened up. The cash market there was better to-day, but this was mostly for lower grades, some small acceptances having been received from Europe overnight. 500,000 bushels were worked to the Orient. Spreads on the lower grades were 1/2 to 1 cent better, while the premiums on No. 1 Northern were 1/2 lower, and No. 2's and 3's were unchanged. Offerings in the local pit were quite scanty, with there being very little hedging pressure and the bulls had little difficulty in helping the shorts force prices higher.

The weather apparently is turning colder over Spring wheat territory both sides of the line, but the threatening is pretty well finished. Broomhall advises state crop conditions in both Argentina and Australia are very favorable, with crops making rapid progress. Look for a trading market for the time being, but would confine purchases to the set backs.

A Story of the Mystic East

The Riddle of Siwa

By DIXON KAYE

Author of "Dr. Burney's Greatest Case."

He had arranged with Ibrahim to start at five in the morning; travel till midday; and then halt, take tiffin, and rest during the great heat of the day.

Camel traveling was no novelty to Seymour, he had made many such journeys.

It was about a quarter to five on the Monday morning that the Sheik, with about twenty followers, all mounted on camels, rode, or, rather, lurched, up to the young engineer's quarters.

"Well, Ibrahim," the Sheik asked, "are you still in the same mind to undertake this danger?"

"Certainly I am," was the answer. "I took upon me as a chance of a great adventure."

"Then I will tell you at once," the Sheik replied, raising his hand, "that I will accept no responsibility. You go at your own risk. I will protect you as far as I can, but that will only be to the walls of the Pyramid of Siwa. Once you are within it, I am powerless to aid you; indeed, I think that there is no power upon earth which could aid you. Will you still go?"

Seymour bowed his head and answered only: "I will go."

"Ibrahim looked at him steadily while his men sat motionless on their camels. The Sheik's eyes seemed full of tears as he spoke.

"Think of the young lady whom you are to marry," he said. "Think of Miss Eva Manders."

A grave, sad look crossed Seymour's face, but he shook off the depression. "No," he answered, "I have told you I am going on a journey. I must go."

The camel he was to ride was already kneeling to receive him, with a dismounted Arab standing by. The engineer took his seat on the back of the animal, which at once rose to its feet.

Without another word, the party moved off toward the Desert.

CHAPTER VI.

It had been a burning hot day, and the sun had beaten down upon them almost from its rise.

"Thank God, we are near Siwa at last!" Seymour exclaimed, as they came within sight of distant square white houses set among tall palms. "I don't think I could have stood another day of it."

The Sheik had sat his camel in silence for the last hour, but he turned his face to his companion now.

"The Pyramid is five miles beyond the O's of Siwa," he said. "We will rest to-night and go forward to the Pyramid to-morrow."

"Cannot we go forward to-night?" Seymour asked.

"Impossible," was the reply. "You are tired cut, and, remember, you may have a great ordeal before you to-morrow night."

"Well, I'll take your advice, Sheik," answered Seymour, wearily. "We'll rest to-night, and set out to-morrow evening for the Pyramid."

By Ibrahim's advice, they turned in early, after a meal of chicken such as the Oasis town afforded.

Seymour spent the next morning in seeing that his automatic pistol and the couple of electric torches he carried were in order. This, with a stroll round the town—just like any other Egyptian town, dirty and over-run with chickens—and a siesta, whiled away the time till the evening.

Then the imposing cavalcade drew up at their caravanserai—modestly named the Grand Hotel for the benefit of the few tourists who drifted that way—and they were ready for a start.

Seymour and Ibrahim rode at the head, and the Arabs, two and two, followed, the butts of their long guns on their hips. It was a stately procession, and the young engineer felt that he was in the midst of a great adventure.

"It is impossible that I can come with you into the Pyramid," the Sheik explained. "You will have to undertake the adventure alone. It is not the danger which daunts me, but another reason which you will learn in time. When we reach the Pyramid—and look," he added, "there it is!"—I suppose you will dismount and commence your endeavor."

"Yes, I am well rested," the young engineer answered. "I shall begin the task at once."

But his eyes were on the same great dark pile in the distance, and he was watching the very last rays of the setting sun glinting on its pointed apex. It looked a dreary spot on the yellow Desert, but the great round moon was even now faintly visible, and he knew it would shine full upon the Pyramid presently.

The Arabs, spread out in a long extended line, advanced upon the Pyramid. Presently, he rose, and, as if to sustain his resolution, commenced the ascent of the Pyramid.

There were steep-like ridges in it, but far apart, so that he had to climb from one to another, but he persevered, ever keeping his eyes away from Ibrahim's camp and its twinkling life.

He now began to circle the Pyramid by walking along the ridges searching for a mode of entering it. He made three such circuits and had seen nothing in the nature of a door, when his close search was rewarded at last. Half way up the Pyramid, on the side farthest from that lighted by the moon and almost undistinguishable from the rest of the great wall, was an oval-shaped opening, and a further inspection proved it to be undoubtedly a doorway.

is but a warning against evil to come. Pause while there is still time! Clear and distinct came the breaking of the waves against the shore. It seemed to be a confirmation of the Sheik's words.

For one moment only, Seymour hesitated, then being now close to the Pyramid, he signalled to an Arab that he would dismount.

"I've come!" exclaimed the Englishman, "and I am going through with it!"

He assured himself that his automatic pistol was in its case at his belt, and that the two electric torches were working, then he turned to his friend and extended his hand.

"Good-bye, Ibrahim," he said. "Thank you for all your goodness to me."

The Arab chief gripped his hand and held it.

"Listen, Ibrahim," he said. "I and my men will camp here and wait two days for you. If you do not join me by the evening of the second day, I shall return to the place from whence I came and give you up as lost."

Seymour released his hand and laid it on the Sheik's arm.

"Do not tell Eva," he said, "that I am lost until a month has elapsed; then you may conclude that I am dead. Will you promise?"

The Sheik bent his head.

"I promise," he answered.

Then Seymour turned and walked away, halting once and waving his arm in farewell.

"So long, Sheik," he cried.

Ibrahim stood watching him, with a peculiar look upon his handsome face; it might have been regret at his going; it might have been wonder that a man could throw away so much or so noble, but over all was a look which might have asked: "What will happen if this man never comes back?"

CHAPTER VII.

The big Eastern moon shone full upon the Pyramid as Seymour approached it; the rhythmic sound of the breaking of the waves upon a shore, accompanied him every step of the way. He stopped and looked round at the limitless expanse of the Desert; he might have been standing on the sands by the sea, but he knew full well that the nearest sea shore was far, far away.

"Yes," he muttered to himself, "the illusion is wonderful, but it is an illusion beyond doubt, all the same."

He intended first to make a complete circuit of the Pyramid, in the hope of finding an entrance, and he turned off to the right, passing first in front, upon which the full light of the moon fell.

He looked up at the rugged face of the great brick structure, with ridges left like steps in its surface. It loomed black and vast against the moonlight, and he saw that in all its great expanse, it showed no sign of a doorway or entrance.

Passing this, he came to the side still in the shadow, and this was more uninviting than the other. Jackal, disturbed at his approach, left a meal of a dead kite, and set off across the Desert.

Seymour made the circuit of the whole Pyramid, scrutinizing every aperture which promised an entrance, but the mystery of the interior, but in the end, he saw none.

Having completed his tour of the four sides of the building, he came back to where he had started from. Here he sat down and rested. Far away was the encampment of Ibrahim; he could see the sparkle of its fire, but he felt ineffably lonely, and never had he been more tempted to return to his friend; but his determination, not unlinked with pride, forbade him to go.

He sat listening to the continuous sound of an imaginary sea breaking on an imaginary shore, and it did not serve to raise his spirits.

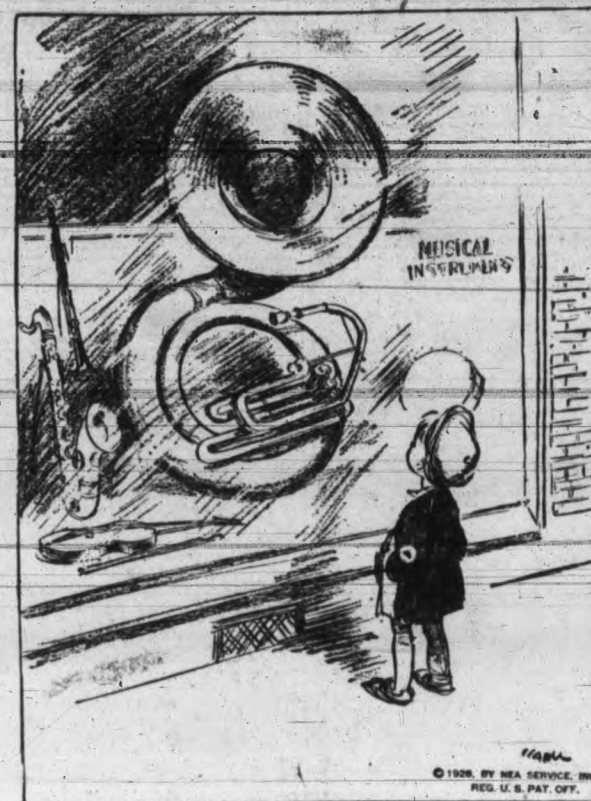

Presently, he rose, and, as if to sustain his resolution, commenced the ascent of the Pyramid.

There were steep-like ridges in it, but far apart, so that he had to climb from one to another, but he persevered, ever keeping his eyes away from Ibrahim's camp and its twinkling life.

He now began to circle the Pyramid by walking along the ridges searching for a mode of entering it. He made three such circuits and had seen nothing in the nature of a door, when his close search was rewarded at last. Half way up the Pyramid, on the side farthest from that lighted by the moon and almost undistinguishable from the rest of the great wall, was an oval-shaped opening, and a further inspection proved it to be undoubtedly a doorway.

Uncle Wiggily and the Sugar

Copyright, 1928, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

(By HOWARD K. GARIS)

There had been some snow and ice, a little freezing weather and a little thawing weather in Woodland where Uncle Wiggily lived. But now the day was crisp and cold and the rabbit gentleman felt fine and dandy as he hopped out of his hollow stump bungalow to go adventuring.

How his pink nose twinkled in the sun! His ears flopped to and fro in the wind as he hopped fast over the fields and through the woods. His paws, fished in and out among the weeds and grass which were now beginning to turn brown, for Jack Frost had touched them with his cold fingers to send them to sleep until Summer should come again to awaken the flowers.

"Well," said Uncle Wiggily to himself as he skipped along, "I am sure I ought to be very happy to-day. I have nothing to worry about. The Skilley Scallery Alligator will keep away from me a long time on account of having broken his teeth trying to eat stones for hickory nuts. And if any other Bad Chaps try to catch me I'll give them the same kind of a trick on them."

So Uncle Wiggily hopped along until, all of a sudden, something dropped out of his pocket as he took a little side on the brook which had frozen over in the night.

"Hello! What's this?" asked Uncle Wiggily, picking up something white. He saw that it was a piece of birch bark on which Nurse Jane Wuzzy had written.

"Don't forget to bring me a pound of sugar,"

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "I came near forgetting. But I'll go get the sugar now."

Then he remembered that the night before the muskrat lady housekeeper had asked him, when he went adventuring next day, to bring her home a pound of sugar. Mr. Longears had promised but Nurse Jane, knowing that when he went adventuring he might forget, had put the piece of bark in his pocket with the message written on it.

"I'll go get the sugar before I look for an adventure," said Mr. Longears to himself. "Then Nurse Jane can't say I forgot."

It did not take him long to buy the sweet stuff, and he was going to take it home when all of a sudden, he saw smoke coming from the windows of the Hollow Stump School and the bunny uncle cried:

"Dear me! The school is on fire! I must hop fast and save the Lady Mouse Teacher and all her pupils!"

Carrying the pound of sugar in a paper bag, Uncle Wiggily raced to the school, but as he arrived he saw the animal boys and girls marching out as nicely as you please, not a bit frightened, and after them came the Lady Mouse Teacher.

"Oh, dear Lady Mouse, is your school going to burn?" cried the rabbit gentleman anxiously.

"No, indeed!" squeaked Miss Mouse. "The janitor just tried to burn too much paper at once in the furnace, and it made a lot of smoke but there was no danger of fire. However, I thought it a good chance to give the pupils fire drill, so I did. But everything is all right. Thank you, though, for coming to save us."

"Don't mention it," said Mr. Longears, glad there was no danger. So the Lady Mouse and the children animals marched back into school and Uncle Wiggily hopped home.

"Where is my sugar?" asked Nurse Jane as she saw him.

"Sugar!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "Sugar? Dear me, what did I do with it?"

"Did you buy it at the store?" asked Nurse Jane.

"Oh, yes," answered the bunny. "I found the piece of bark on which you wrote the message. I at once hopped to the store and bought the sugar. I was bringing it to you before looking for an adventure when suddenly I saw smoke coming out of the school. I thought it was on fire, but it wasn't."

"Then I started home and I thought, all the while, I had the sugar with me. But I didn't, it seems. I wonder what I did with it."

"I wonder, too," said Nurse Jane, smiling. "I guess you forgot to get it to you had better go back to get the store again. You are very forgetful, Wiggily dear."

"No, I'm sure I bought the sugar," said the bunny. "But what I did with it I can't remember. It is very mysterious."

And what happened after that I'll tell you about in the next story, which will be about Uncle Wiggily and the Sink. That is if the kitchen sink doesn't try to swell up to grow big like a bath tub and scare the dishpan so its handles fall off.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

SMALL FAVORS AND ACCOMMODATIONS

One Mother Says: Often my child will offer me his chair, or his solitary bit of candy.

This remarkable trait of character is not uncommon, and frequently manifests itself at an extremely early age. Ordinarily a child looks to his Mother for her approval or disapproval, in his every dramatic act. A wise parent notes this inclination and uses her head.

So by accepting small favors and accommodations from the youngster once-in-while she enters the spirit of "give and take" with him, simultaneously teaching him a valuable lesson, that is good for life.

AT THE THEATRES

CALIFORNIA WOODS SETTING OF FILM AT THE COLUMBIA

"Thunder," the marvel dog of the screen, is the headline star at the Columbia Theatre to-day, where the new Gotham production entitled "The Phantom of the Forest" is being shown.

As the title would indicate, the action of the story takes place in a forest, but such a forest—the magnificent redwoods of old California—forms the scenic background for the story.

The plot revolves around two scheming scoundrels who discover that a certain piece of timber land also contains oil. The land is owned by a girl, and the two men, knowing she is in need of funds, try to secure an option on the property. They are foiled through the action of a mysterious dog who roams wild and who is known as "The Phantom of the Forest."

On the stage this week is the Lee Jaxon Company in "Wanted, Some Parents," a comedy abounding in good clean humor and side-splitting situations. Miss Dorothy Raymond is exceptionally well cast as the old maid boarding house mistress, and her grimaces and determined remarks keep the house in roars of laughter. The rest of the cast is well chosen.

JOHN GILBERT IN STORY OF SLUMS AT THE DOMINION

"Four Walls," John Gilbert's starring picture, which opened to-day at the Dominion Theatre, is the star's answer to any assertions that a great lover on the screen need not necessarily be a great actor.

In this picture Gilbert is both a great actor and a great lover. The picture is, without a question, the best piece of dramatic acting Gilbert has done on the screen. At the same time it contains a sufficient number of real honest-to-goodness love scenes to satisfy the most exacting of the Gilbert fans.

Joan Crawford does the best work she has yet brought to the screen as the leading lady, and William H. Hays did an excellent job as the director.

INDIGESTION, GAS AND SEVERE PAIN

Of the thousands of people whom Tanlac has saved from the misery of Indigestion and Stomach Trouble, none are more grateful than Mr. Fred Hill, 349 Thames St., London, Ont. "I had about given out altogether," he says, "and was going down hill so fast that I thought nothing could stop me. I ate only two light meals a day and even then suffered untold agonies from indigestion, gas and pains that just doubled me up. My nerves were wrecked; every bone in my body ached; I could not sleep, and just felt sick all over."

"Tanlac fixed me up so I could eat anything from soup to dessert without having indigestion. All my other troubles vanished like smoke. I picked up twelve pounds and never felt better. I never thought anything could do for me what Tanlac did."

Tanlac corrects Stomach Trouble and builds up the whole system because it is nature's own remedy for the sick—roots, herbs and berries. Remember, your money back if it doesn't help you, so get a bottle at your drugist's to-day.

This structure, designed by William Darling, is said to be the most practical building of the kind ever built for picture purposes. ### THOMAS MEIGHAN PLAYING LEADING ROLE AT CAPITOL

More than 1,000 film "extras" were used in the mob scenes of Thomas Meighan's latest starring vehicle, entitled "The Racket," sensational melodrama of the underworld now showing at the Capitol Theatre.

The mob scenes, which also required the services of upwards of 300 technicians, including electricians and directorial staff, were among the largest and most exciting ever screened.

According to the poplar star, he has waited nearly a year for the proper vehicle, and in "The Racket," Meighan returns to his many fans after months of absence.

The stage attractions appearing at the Capitol for the balance of the week include Chappelle and Raynes, a couple of extremely clever acrobats; Bert Bennett and his guitar, and Dorothy Lewis, contralto soloist, in song selections. Harold Bechtel, the singing M.C., and the concert orchestra will complete the fine bill of vaudeville which will appear twice daily.
